RAINBOW AGAIN IN LEAD FOR WINS IN YACHT CUP SERIES

Defender Scores Clean-Cut Victory Over British Challenger in Brisk Offshore Breeze—Inferior Handling Loses Ground for Endeavour—Protest Set Aside on Technicality

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 24 (CP).—Harold S. Vanderbilt won a clean-cut victory over T. O. M. Sopwith, today, to make the score for the series, Rainbow three; Endeavour two. One more victory for the defender will mean retention by the New York Yacht Club of the America's Cup, continuously held on this side of the Atlantic for the past eighty-three years.

Today's race was perhaps the most interesting from a spectator's standpoint of the series to date. Conditions were ideal for the encounter. An offshore wind, varying from ten to fifteen knots, made for a smooth sea and enabled both yachts to show their true wares.

INFERIOR HANDLING

But again the British challenger suffered from inferior handling. Rainbow seemed to drop Endeavour consistently on the run down the wind to the first mark. Although actually the challenger was made to sail through at least a mile more water than was necessary, for no apparent reason. This extra mile just about represented the lead of four minutes forty seconds established by Rainbow for the first half of the course. Endeavour defeated Rainbow on the last fifteen miles of windward work by thirty-nine seconds. But the margin, of course, merely reduced the lead piled up by Rainbow on her worst point of sailing, dead before the wind.

Both yachts got away to an excellent start. However, Sopwith was troubled early with an unruly spinnaker. The big sail fouled a jibstay, then tore as it was set. Rainbow was prompt in tacking the spinnaker she borrowed from Yankee, and the big kite pulled her along like an express train for the greater part of the run to the outer mark. But because of the weight

SHAFT SEALED AT COLLIERY

All Hope Gone for Rescue of 261 Miners at Wrexham, North Wales

WREXHAM, Wales, Sept. 24 (AP).—An investigation of the cause of Wales' latest mine disaster was opened today as sealing of the shaft of the Gresford Collieries ended the last faint hopes for 261 miners entombed within.

Officials ordered the mine sealed "with great reluctance," after they had decided no one could have survived the inferno of fire, explosions and deadly gases sweeping the diggings since Saturday's first explosion.

Only fifteen bodies have been recovered. Rescue efforts, carried on frantically since Saturday, were abandoned yesterday when a series of new explosions, fire and deadly fumes endangered the workers.

A RAGING FURNACE

The possibility that some of the victims had crawled into secondary seams and were still living was dashed by the latest rescue workers to return to the surface. They said that these sections were rapidly becoming filled with flames and the whole mine is now a "raging furnace."

While the working of sealing up the shaft was proceeding rapidly, the corner for East Denbighshire opened an inquest on the bodies so far recovered. Only ten of them have been officially identified.

At the corner's request, the court stood for two minutes in silent homage to the dead, the only audible sounds being the sobbing of relatives.

LEAGUE EAGER TO USE CONCILIATION

Paraguay and Bolivia Differ as to Ending Hostilities Before Committee Acts

GENEVA, Sept. 24 (AP).—Conciliation today was adopted as the League of Nations' best bet to end the long, bitter war in the Chaco Boreal.

A conciliation committee to operate under the aegis of the League was envisaged by the political committee, which voted to apply conciliation articles of the League's Covenant after several South American delegates agreed that the whole matter should be placed in the League's hands.

Paraguay and Bolivia, however, again differed sharply as to whether fighting should end before or after conciliation started.

Are Successful in Federal By-Elections

COLIN CAMPBELL, Lib., Frontenac-Addington
T. L. CHURCH, Cons., Toronto East
W. H. MILLS, Lib., Elgin West
W. P. MULOCK, Lib., North York

These were the five points decided upon at last night's meeting of the City Council, after a heated debate was precipitated by a report from a special committee appointed at the request of Alderman T. W. Hawkins to investigate why city employees, and how many, lived outside the boundary.

Four Liberals and One Conservative Win By-Elections

Thomas L. Church Elected in Toronto East—Colin Campbell, W. H. Mills, H. B. McKinnon and Col. W. P. Mulock Elected to Opposition—Frontenac-Addington Result Is Surprise

TORONTO, Sept. 24 (CP).—Four Liberals new to Parliament and a veteran Conservative parliamentary won seats in the House of Commons in the five Ontario by-elections, Monday. Three months after the Ontario general election sent the Liberal Party to a sweeping victory, Monday's contests in ridings scattered over the province found the followers of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in the favor of the electors.

Two of the Liberal victories were in former Conservative seats, Frontenac-Addington and York North. The other two, Elgin West and Kenora-Rainy River, were old Liberal seats vacated in the formation of the new Ontario Cabinet.

CONSERVATIVE WINS

Thomas L. Church, seven times Mayor of Toronto, former member of Parliament and defeated candidate in the 1930 general elections, scored the lone Conservative victory. Mr. Church held Toronto East safe for Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and will now take his seat in the House after an absence of four years.

The electoral battles were called a "little general election" and were eagerly watched by political observers. Liberals hailed the result as indicative of a continued swing to Liberalism, but Conservatives took satisfaction in the victory of Mr. Church and the votes polled by other candidates.

Frontenac-Addington proved the surprise of the day by returning a Conservative. The victory was

EXTENSION TO BE COMPLETED

Permanent Non-Skid Surface to Be Placed on Top of Johnson Street Fill

Johnson Street extension is to be completed, as a result of action taken at last night's meeting of the City Council, on a motion by Alderman John A. Worthington. This project is one that has been sponsored by Alderman Worthington and Dr. J. D. Hunter for some time.

Considerable work has been carried out this year in the way of filling in the centre between the guard rails. A further sum of $1,908 was voted last night for the purpose of completing the work.

NON-SKID SURFACE

A permanent, non-skid surface will be laid down, the curves banked, and other improvements made to convert the extension into a good, wide highway, with a maximum amount of safety.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar humorously drew attention to the fact that at present the guard rail on the side leading out from the city shows no sign of wear, whereas the rail on the inbound lane of traffic shows considerable scraping from the fenders of automobiles. He alluded to the beer parlors in Esquimaux, but hastened to add that he did not wish to cast any reflections on the sobriety of Victorians visiting the adjoining municipality.

Specially Fitted Liner for Legate

GENOVA, Italy, Sept. 24 (AP).—A "floating cathedral"—the specially-fitted Italian liner Conte Grande—tonight bore Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Pope Pius' legate, to the Eucharistic Congress at Buenos Aires, opening next month.

A Papal mission of six accompanied Cardinal Pacelli, who will preside over the congress. Tens of thousands cheered the mission along the route to the harbor and at the waterfront.

Cardinal Pacelli is Papal Secretary of State.

CIDUAD REAL, Spain, Sept. 25 (AP).—George Magatanes, French official commercial attache whose station is at Rabat, Morocco, was shot and seriously wounded near this city, last night, as he stopped his car near a vineyard to examine a highway sign. Police said the shot extracted from the wound was of a type used by guards to protect vineyards against grape thieves.

Battle Was Bloody and Successful

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Ministry of War, in a communique, tonight, asserted that 1,400 Paraguayans had been killed in a battle in the Algodon sector of the Gran Chaco Boreal. The communique added that the battle had been one of the bloodiest as well as one of the most successful battles in recent fighting, judging from the Bolivian standpoint.

PRICES WILL RISE SLOWLY

Nevada Senator Makes Prediction as to Gold and Silver

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24 (AP).—Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, asserted, today, in a speech before the Western Division, American Mining Congress, that he believed the price of silver would be raised to $1.29 an ounce by a gradual process, and that the price of gold would go to $41.34 an ounce.

His prediction, he said, was based on the belief that the price would have to be bid up in order to get the amount of silver the President is required to purchase under the Silver Act of 1934.

Confronting an audience containing many silverites impatient to see the price of the white metal at higher levels, Senator Pittman talked on the complexities involved in lifting the prices of the two monetary metals. He said he had received many letters from copper producers contending something should be done for them, too. "But the trouble is the letters do not agree upon what should be done."

The veteran leader of the Senate silver bloc explained that one reason President Roosevelt is moving slowly in purchasing silver and lifting the price, is because he stresses the importance of encouraging world trade.

PROTEST FROM CHINA

Already, Senator Pittman said, the rise of silver from around 45 cents an ounce to 48-50 cents has brought protest from China, which has been injured, he said, while American exports to China have been increased in proportion.

"It is not so long ago that he were not shipping any lumber to China," he said.

"Now they are chartering all available ships in the ports of the Pacific Northwest to ship lumber to China."

WOMAN RACE DRIVER KILLED AT STATE FAIR

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 24 (AP).—Elfrida Mals, forty-two, widely-known woman race driver, was killed tonight when her automobile crashed into a grader after she had driven the machine through a blinding board wall at the Alabama State Fair. She was the wife of Ray la Plante, of Newark, N.J.

WILL PRESS CHARGES

Philippine officials have announced their determination to press charges vigorously, because of numerous other instances of poaching by Japanese fishermen.

Driving their fifty-foot launch through a heavy storm, the Hayan Maru's crew escaped capture by three American revenue cutters, and reached their home port of Takao, when informed of their arrival, Atsushi Kimura, Japanese Consul-General at Manila, notified the Japanese Governor-General at Taihoku, Formosa, who promptly ordered their arrest and detention pending extradition proceedings.

Kimura said the men would be tried and punished in Formosa if they were not extradited to the Philippines.

FIND BODIES TWELVE HOURS AFTER CRASH

POCATELLO, Idaho, Sept. 24 (AP).—Almost twelve hours after their car had crashed into a cement bridge across a dry canal east of here, the bodies of Carl Pannan, twenty-five, and Dolly Storma, twenty-nine, both of Pocatello, were found in the demolished machine at noon today.

Apparently traveling at a high speed, the car hit the bridge and overturned in the canal. The road is lightly traveled, accounting for the delay in finding the bodies.

British Columbia's Mines Leading Way To Higher Levels

Gold Recoveries Near $7,000,000 Mark in Eight Months, $14,000,000 Anticipated for Year—Base Metal Division on Firmer Ground

By SANDHAM GRAVES
BRITISH Columbia gold production for eight months, this year, is close to 200,000 fine ounces. This, at a current level of $34.50 per fine ounce, would have a value of $6,900,000 in Canadian funds. Production for the whole of last year was 247,457 ounces, worth $8,555,716 in Canadian funds.

A gold output of $14,000,000 may be expected for the twelve-month period, in the opinion of those in a position to estimate actual production.

From approximately a quarter of a million ounces received within the province in twelve months last year, producers received an average yield of $28.60 per fine ounce. The average return for the first six months this year was $34.67 a fine ounce, while the current level is around $34.50.

Winter Weather Envelops Prairies

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24 (CP).—More showers, sleet, or possibly snow flurries and cooler temperatures faced Western Canada tonight and tomorrow, the prospect was for a "wet harvest" for those farmers who have not already garnered their crops.

In the Crown's Nest Pass Winter struck with a vengeance and covered the ground with eighteen inches of snow.

SIGNALS WILL BE PERMISSIVE

Amendments to By-Law on Taxi-Cab Rates Given Third Reading

The streets traffic and regulations by-law amendments, setting up a schedule of taxi-cab rates, and making the installation of traffic signals permissive, passed its third reading at last night's meeting of the City Council. It will come up for final passing at the next meeting.

Letters of protest against the traffic signals were laid on the table until a report on the cost of installing them is secured.

CRUSHED UNDER HUSBAND'S CAR

Agreed to End Estrangement Just Before Accident Costing Her Life

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24 (AP).—

Mrs. Leona Secon, twenty, was crushed to death, tonight, under an automobile in which, police said, her estranged husband planned to kill her and himself, but changed his mind after she agreed to return to him.

Had she assented to her husband's demands for her return a few moments earlier, police said, her life would have been spared.

She refused, however, they added, until the automobile was traveling around a rocky curve at a seventy-mile-an-hour pace. Then she said "yes," and her husband slammed on the brakes only to have the car overturn, police stated.

The husband, David, twenty-five, a baker, escaped serious injury. Police said he told them what had happened. They said he also told them he had left his twenty-month-old son, Edward, by the roadside "so he can run over."

Whatever the reason, he lost the race at this point by heading his challenger away from the mark.

Both youths had been carrying their mainstays to port on the run down to the leeward mark. But, owing to a slight shift in the wind, it now became necessary to jibe the mainstays over to starboard in order to maintain a true course to the buoy. Jibing over the mainstays meant taking down the spinners in order to set them to port.

Vanderbilt took advantage of the accident to his spinaker to jibe over his mainstays. By thus turning his loss into a gain, he actually lost very little time because of the accident to his big head-sail.

HALF-MILE ASTERN Sopwith should have duplicated the operation at the same time. Instead, he held on, working farther to westward of his course and finally found himself a good half-mile astern of the apparently rejuvenated and certainly feeling Rainbow.

After rounding the outer mark, which today happened to be a converted British submarine chaser now owned by one of the Vanderbilt family, Sopwith began to pick up.

Sopwith favored short tacks and lots of them. Every time he came about, of course, Vanderbilt covered.

Both yachts were well to weather. They raced over the finish line to the usual pandemonium of screaming whistles with Endeavour trailing Rainbow by a wide margin, and until both yachts hit the water in elapsed time.

SET ASIDE PROTEST The race committee of the New York Yacht Club last night set aside the protest of T. O. M. Sopwith, Royal Yacht Squadron's challenger, skipper of the Endeavour, that the United States defender of the America's Cup, the yacht Rainbow, had started and immediately after rounding the first buoy in Saturday's race, won by Rainbow.

The decision was announced in a letter replying to Mr. Sopwith's formal complaint, handed, not on the day of the protest, but at the time of the race, as required by the rules of the New York Yacht Club, under which the series is being conducted.

The letter elaborated the point that failure on the part of Sopwith to fly a protest flag at the start of the race and presumably a second after turning the first mark, prohibited him from holding his protest. Both have been president of the Veterans' Association of the riding.

Col. Mulock is a grandson of Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of Ontario, who was Postmaster-General in the Laurier Cabinet.

BEGIN CELEBRATION When the early returns showed conclusively a Mulock victory, the Liberals began a monster celebration and Conservatives went home to bed. So figures were compiled for only twenty-five out of 118 polls. Mulock had a majority of nearly 2,000.

One of the liveliest campaigns of all was conducted in Toronto East. Major H. P. Snelgrove, Liberal, and Graham Spay, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, provided the opposition for Mr. Church in the three-cornered fight. It was regarded as anybody's victory until the majority started piling up for the veteran "Tommy."

A strong champion of public ownership of public utilities and a sworn enemy of "big business," Mr. Church is regarded as somewhat of an Independent Conservative in some quarters, but has always campaigned as a firm supporter of the party's leaders. He is reputed to know more people in Toronto by their first names than any other man.

LEADER PLEADS CAUSE Both parties threw their most powerful speakers into the campaign. Mr. Mackenzie King made a tour of the five constituencies, pleading the cause of Liberals. For the Government, H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals; and Hon. R. C. Matthews, Minister of National Revenue, threw their weight into the battle.

The Conservatives stood upon the record of the Bennett Government, while the Liberals assailed the Government's trade policies. The Stevens probe into price spreads and mass buying was used as an argument for the election of Conservative candidates and denounced by Liberals as subterfuge. Mr. King promised a more complete investigation and blamed the Government for not taking action on the situation already disclosed.

The new spinaker was set and was drawing beautifully eleven minutes after the accident.

GETTING ON TERMS In the meantime, Endeavour had come up and appeared to be on even terms with the defender. But she immediately bore away to westward of the course to the mark, throwing away the momentary gain.

Possibly Mr. Sopwith did not wish to take advantage of Rainbow's misfortune. Whatever the reason, he lost the race at this point by heading his challenger away from the mark.

BEAR PETITION FOR SECESSION

Delegation of Four Sails From Western Australia for London

PREMANTLE, Australia, Sept. 24 (CP, via Reuters).—A delegation of four sailed today for England, carrying the petition of the State of Western Australia for separation from the Commonwealth.

The petition is in the form of an address to the King and the House of Lords and House of Commons, authorized by the State Parliament, which follows the special plebiscite of last year, when the people voted by a majority of about two to one in favour of secession from the Commonwealth.

The Commonwealth is vigorously opposed to the move and claims that Western Australia's method of pressing for secession is unconstitutional. It proposes an inter-state conference to consider Western Australia's claims of unfair treatment financially under the Commonwealth.

With his wife, Lindbergh was speeding by plane back to New York to lend all possible aid.

HIGHLIGHTS OF EVIDENCE District Attorney Samuel Foley laid this evidence before the grand jurors:

Testimony of Dr. Condon that he paid the money over. His partial identification of Hauptmann as the kidnaper.

Identification by John Perrone, a taxi-cab driver, who says Hauptmann gave him $1.00 to deliver a note to Condon's home. One of the ransom notes.

Testimony of Walter Lyle and John Lyons, filling station attendants, who identified Hauptmann as the man who paid for gasoline with one of the ransom bills.

Foley has also summoned handwriting experts who have identified Hauptmann's writing as that on the ransom notes.

"I have some startling information which is now undergoing thorough investigation," Foley said. "Should this information be true, I assure you it will split the case wide open."

COMMITTEE REPORTS ON INVESTIGATION

The special committee investigating charges made by Walter Henderson reported to the City Council last night that it could find no justification for the charges of perjury made against members of the relief department, and that the relief department was administered in a legitimate manner.

It also recommended that a special category be provided for single men on relief who had been property holders since January, 1932. They will in future receive relief at the rate of $3 per day when employed, subject to the approval of the relief committee.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP).—Col. Henry Cockshutt, president of the Cockshutt Pulp Company for fifty years, today retired at a meeting of the board of directors, when important changes were made in the board. Col. Cockshutt, who retains the chairmanship of the board, will be succeeded as president by C. Gordon Cockshutt, formerly second vice-president.

INCREASED PERSONNEL A second addition to the resolution urged that "the personnel of the Canadian Pension Commission be substantially increased forthwith, for the purpose of handling the large accumulation of cases now awaiting adjudication, including approximately 3,000 cases where the validity of marriage is questioned."

Regarding examination for eligibility for pensions, delegates were unanimous in recommending that regard be had for the particular circumstances of individual cases. A resolution urged that such matters as weather, nervousness to the front line, extent of danger and nervous shock should receive equal weight with length of service.

Today's session of the convention adjourned with a long list of resolutions to be considered on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Y.M.C.A. CLASSES FOR BUSINESSMEN BEGIN

Businessmen's classes at the Y.M.C.A. got under way, yesterday, commencing with a special health drill under the leadership of Archie McKinnon, physical instructor, and followed by a volley ball session in charge of Frank Paulding.

An invitation to all those desiring to learn to play volley ball to attend a special coaching class has been issued by Mr. Paulding. Those wishing to take advantage of Mr. Paulding's offer are asked to communicate with him at the Y.M.C.A. Greater interest is now being taken by businessmen in gymnasium training, according to Y.M.C.A. officials, who announce they have planned an extensive and special course for businessmen of Victoria.

EARLY START ON BUILDING SOUGHT

The City Council, last night, endorsed the letter from the Builders' Exchange, in which the city was asked to support a request to the Dominion Department of Public Works that work be started soon on the new marine building.

The reason cited for an early start was that relief for the unemployed was needed immediately.

JEWELRY IS STOLEN FROM OAK BAY HOME

Thieves who recently broke into the home of Mrs. Robert Murray, 1133 Monterey Avenue, stole a string of pearls, silver bracelets, one gold neck chain, a brooch and a number of smaller pieces of jewelry in a jewel box, according to a report to Oak Bay police.

GRAND JURY HEARS CASE

"We presented the case," Foley said, "as completely as we could, but it is not yet co-ordinated and cannot be until we hear the testimony of important witnesses, including Colonel Henry Breckenbridge (the Lindbergh attorney) and Colonel Lindbergh."

"I have some startling information which is now undergoing thorough investigation," Foley said. "Should this information be true, I assure you it will split the case wide open."

COMMITTEE REPORTS ON INVESTIGATION

The special committee investigating charges made by Walter Henderson reported to the City Council last night that it could find no justification for the charges of perjury made against members of the relief department, and that the relief department was administered in a legitimate manner.

It also recommended that a special category be provided for single men on relief who had been property holders since January, 1932. They will in future receive relief at the rate of $3 per day when employed, subject to the approval of the relief committee.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Sept. 24 (CP).—Col. Henry Cockshutt, president of the Cockshutt Pulp Company for fifty years, today retired at a meeting of the board of directors, when important changes were made in the board. Col. Cockshutt, who retains the chairmanship of the board, will be succeeded as president by C. Gordon Cockshutt, formerly second vice-president.

INCREASED PERSONNEL A second addition to the resolution urged that "the personnel of the Canadian Pension Commission be substantially increased forthwith, for the purpose of handling the large accumulation of cases now awaiting adjudication, including approximately 3,000 cases where the validity of marriage is questioned."

Regarding examination for eligibility for pensions, delegates were unanimous in recommending that regard be had for the particular circumstances of individual cases. A resolution urged that such matters as weather, nervousness to the front line, extent of danger and nervous shock should receive equal weight with length of service.

Today's session of the convention adjourned with a long list of resolutions to be considered on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Y.M.C.A. CLASSES FOR BUSINESSMEN BEGIN

Businessmen's classes at the Y.M.C.A. got under way, yesterday, commencing with a special health drill under the leadership of Archie McKinnon, physical instructor, and followed by a volley ball session in charge of Frank Paulding.

An invitation to all those desiring to learn to play volley ball to attend a special coaching class has been issued by Mr. Paulding. Those wishing to take advantage of Mr. Paulding's offer are asked to communicate with him at the Y.M.C.A. Greater interest is now being taken by businessmen in gymnasium training, according to Y.M.C.A. officials, who announce they have planned an extensive and special course for businessmen of Victoria.

EARLY START ON BUILDING SOUGHT

The City Council, last night, endorsed the letter from the Builders' Exchange, in which the city was asked to support a request to the Dominion Department of Public Works that work be started soon on the new marine building.

The reason cited for an early start was that relief for the unemployed was needed immediately.

JEWELRY IS STOLEN FROM OAK BAY HOME

Thieves who recently broke into the home of Mrs. Robert Murray, 1133 Monterey Avenue, stole a string of pearls, silver bracelets, one gold neck chain, a brooch and a number of smaller pieces of jewelry in a jewel box, according to a report to Oak Bay police.

RAINBOW AGAIN IN LEAD IN CUP SERIES

of wind, a rent suddenly appeared near the foot of the sail, forty-five minutes after the start. It was decided to take it in and set a spare.

The new spinaker was set and was drawing beautifully eleven minutes after the accident.

GETTING ON TERMS In the meantime, Endeavour had come up and appeared to be on even terms with the defender. But she immediately bore away to westward of the course to the mark, throwing away the momentary gain.

Possibly Mr. Sopwith did not wish to take advantage of Rainbow's misfortune. Whatever the reason, he lost the race at this point by heading his challenger away from the mark.

Both yachts had been carrying their mainstays to port on the run down to the leeward mark. But, owing to a slight shift in the wind, it now became necessary to jibe the mainstays over to starboard in order to maintain a true course to the buoy. Jibing over the mainstays meant taking down the spinners in order to set them to port.

Vanderbilt took advantage of the accident to his spinaker to jibe over his mainstays. By thus turning his loss into a gain, he actually lost very little time because of the accident to his big head-sail.

HALF-MILE ASTERN Sopwith should have duplicated the operation at the same time. Instead, he held on, working farther to westward of his course and finally found himself a good half-mile astern of the apparently rejuvenated and certainly feeling Rainbow.

After rounding the outer mark, which today happened to be a converted British submarine chaser now owned by one of the Vanderbilt family, Sopwith began to pick up.

Sopwith favored short tacks and lots of them. Every time he came about, of course, Vanderbilt covered.

Both yachts were well to weather. They raced over the finish line to the usual pandemonium of screaming whistles with Endeavour trailing Rainbow by a wide margin, and until both yachts hit the water in elapsed time.

SET ASIDE PROTEST The race committee of the New York Yacht Club last night set aside the protest of T. O. M. Sopwith, Royal Yacht Squadron's challenger, skipper of the Endeavour, that the United States defender of the America's Cup, the yacht Rainbow, had started and immediately after rounding the first buoy in Saturday's race, won by Rainbow.

The decision was announced in a letter replying to Mr. Sopwith's formal complaint, handed, not on the day of the protest, but at the time of the race, as required by the rules of the New York Yacht Club, under which the series is being conducted.

The letter elaborated the point that failure on the part of Sopwith to fly a protest flag at the start of the race and presumably a second after turning the first mark, prohibited him from holding his protest. Both have been president of the Veterans' Association of the riding.

CITY SEEKING RATE BUREAU

Council Voices Dissatisfaction With Underwriters' Survey Report

Unanimous endorsement of the fire wardens' report, in which the British Columbia Board of Fire Insurance Underwriters was subjected to lengthy criticism, and the City Council requested to make another application for a reduction of rates, and unanimous support of a resolution calling upon the Government to set up legislation for the establishment of a public rating bureau, were the outstanding features of last night's meeting of the City Council.

Following is the fire wardens' report:

THE REPORT
Your committee has carefully considered the report submitted by the fire underwriters' engineer on this subject. The report follows the same lines as previous reports, and is chiefly devoted to criticism of the fire department, personnel, equipment, water supply, etc.

"There does not appear to be any genuine desire on the part of the underwriters' association to give any credit for recent additions, and improvements to the fire department or our waterworks system, and the low fire loss records of the city for many years past are dismissed as being lucky.

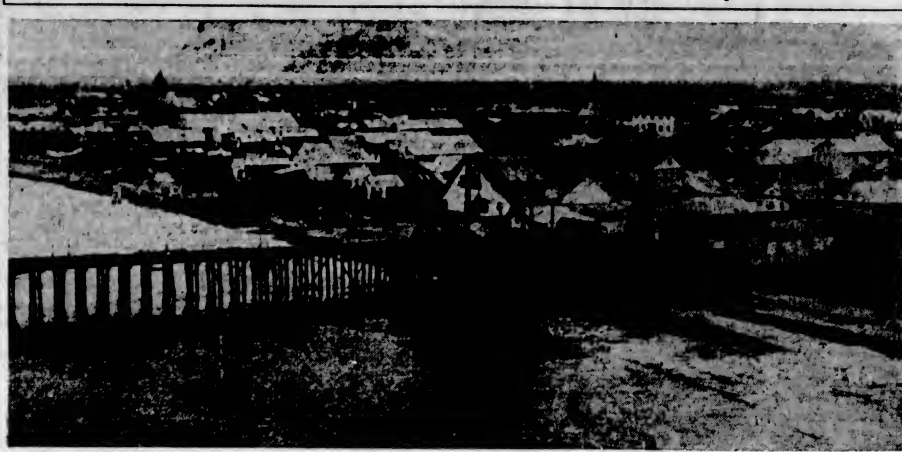

"As the underwriters point out, the system they adopt for classifying a city, and on which their rates are based, is extremely complicated. Your committee submits, however, that the city's outstanding record for many years past for extremely low fire loss is the most obvious reason for requesting a reduction in fire insurance rates, and it is recommended that the underwriters be again asked for a substantial reduction in the fire insurance rates in the City of Victoria."

OUTLINES VIEWS

Alderman Walter Lunney, chairman of the fire wardens, who has sponsored the movement for reduction in rates, was the chief spokesman in the debate for the adoption of this report.

"It is very interesting to compare this report with previous ones. The system of arriving at the rates is

Historic Alaskan City Razed by Fire

—Central Press Photograph.

Nome, a city of a thousand stirring events of world-wide importance, which was razed by a conflagration, last week, that heated all efforts to control it. Part of the picturesque centre, which made history in the gold rush days, is pictured above. Only two buildings were left standing in the business section, and most of the residences were razed. More than 400 people were reported homeless in the catastrophe, and a number of persons were injured by dynamite blasts, used to check the spread of the flames. Loss was estimated in excess of $2,000,000.

anything but fair," he declared. "Hardly any criticism in the report is helpful in the building up of the fire-fighting system. They allow seven points for new equipment, yet the city has spent $53,000 in the last four years on new equipment alone. They penalize us for failure to replace hose annually, yet we have constantly made replacements. It is true that we have 4,000 feet less than in 1921, but offsetting this we have twenty-nine new hydrants, which means that less hose length is required, because the long runs for hose are cut down. We have spent $6,572 on new hose since the last report, and improved our alarm system at a cost of $8,234, yet marks are deducted because we did not put a fresh coat of paint on the boxes this year.

IMPROVE WATERWORKS
"We have spent nearly $500,000 in improving our waterworks system, boosting the pressure, establishing a cross connection, and improving the high pressure system, yet they seem to place more faith in the antiquated high-pressure system than they do in the newer and more efficient one," Alderman Lunney continued. "The old system was used three times in twenty years, and on two of those occasions it 'blew up.' Our personnel has a greater average years of efficiency than existed when the last report was made, but little or no account is taken of this. Our sustained low fire loss is treated as a piece of good luck, but I contend that when that low loss average is established over a period of twenty years, there is mighty little luck entering into the picture.

"The underwriters must have a low opinion of the intelligence of this council, if they think they can fool us with such a report. They should base the rate on our record of low fire loss, which cannot be disproved," the alderman stated.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar reviewed the history of the city's fight for lower rates, and pointed out that "the underwriters always find some excuse for not giving us a reduction."

He pointed out that the last survey report recommended that a cross connection be made between the Sooke and Goldstream water systems. This had cost approximately $250,000, but they still had not taken this improvement into consideration, he asserted.

The report, after these arguments had been advanced, was carried without a dissenting vote.

RATING BUREAU
Alderman Andrew McGavin, in sponsoring his motion for the establishment of a public rating bureau, pointed out that fire insurance today was viewed by all governing bodies as a public utility.

"Certain people, through what may be no fault of their own, are compelled to buy insurance, but there is no law to state that such insurance shall be reasonable or equitable, or that no discrimination shall be practised by the powers that control the rates," the alderman stated.

"I believe that during the past twenty years the city has had fire losses aggregating $1,740,000, and it is estimated that about 80 per cent of it was insurance loss. In other words, the insurance companies paid $1,390,000 over the same period on an average physical loss of $73,000 per annum, with an average insurance loss of $99,600 per annum.

POSSIBLE SAVING
"In the past twenty years we have paid the insurance companies approximately $6,000,000, and the companies have paid approximately $1,384,000 in losses. Had there been some legislation, there is no doubt that over the period of twenty years Victoria would have saved $150,000 per annum, or in twenty years, $3,000,000," Alderman McGavin explained.

"At present, the B.C.I.U.A. is not incorporated. It has no legal status. It cannot be taken into court, yet it controls practically $8,000,000 per annum of insurance premiums. This city maintains a highly organized and extremely efficient fire brigade, and our up-to-the-mark water system has been a factor in saving millions of dollars' worth of property, and this has not been recognized by the insurance companies, the rates having been out of all proportion, and there has been no reduction in the insurance rates to compensate for the amount of money invested in fire protection.

"This all-powerful B.C.I.U.A., controlled by direct representation on its governing committee by three United States citizens not residing in Canada, make sure they make us pay a higher rate for our insurance in British Columbia than is paid in Washington, Oregon, or Idaho, because the rates in the three states mentioned are controlled by legislation, and in British Columbia we have no Government control of rates," the alderman declared.

He also explained that some insurance companies contribute to the upkeep of fire brigades, and cited the St. Paul & Marine Insurance Company as one.

His motion, too, carried without a dissenting vote.

Presentation Made To City Alderman At Council Meeting

A BEAUTIFUL cut-glass fruit dish and silver pie holder were presented to Alderman John Worthington, vice-chairman of the public works committee, and Mrs. Worthington, on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding.

Alderman P. R. Brown made the presentation, which was received by Alderman Worthington with some surprise, the presentation having been kept quiet in City Hall circles.

WORK OF FUEL STAFF Praised

Research and Fuel-Testing Branches at Ottawa Have Aided B.C. Coal

Excellent work done by fuel-testing and research laboratories of the Dominion Mines Department at Ottawa was acknowledged yesterday by Robert Dunn, deputy minister of the British Columbia Mines Department, in a statement to the press.

Mr. Haanal is chief of the fuel-testing division, and Mr. Strong is chief of the combustion research division. Both called during the day on Hon. G. S. Pearson and British Columbia mines' officials, while in the city on a brief visit from Ottawa.

AIDED MARKETING
It was largely through the tests made by the research staff at Ottawa that a new outlet was found for British Columbia fuel problems, in so far as research and testing may serve. They were welcomed cordially by officials of the British Columbia department.

MONTREAL, Sept. 24 (CP).—Earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for the week ended September 21 showed an increase of $179,000 over the same period last year, from $2,918,000, 1933, to $3,097,000.

FORD OFFICIALS VISIT VICTORIA

President Wallace R. Campbell Inspects Premises of Local Dealers

Wallace R. Campbell, president of Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, motored to Victoria, Sunday, to inspect premises of National Motors, Limited, local Ford dealers, and to study conditions affecting motor car sales on Vancouver Island.

In Victoria, Mr. Campbell had scheduled conferences with W. P. D. Pemberton, president, and L. de S. Duke, vice-president, of National Motors, Limited. During his stay here he was stopping at the Empress Hotel. Mr. Campbell was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Gladys E. Campbell, O.B.E. Other members of the party included H. P. Cottingham, manager of the Vancouver branch of the Ford company, and Mr. Cottingham; R. M. Sale, assistant general sales manager; A. S. Ellis, general service manager; and C. E. Best, service manager of Vancouver branch.

SIX WEEKS' TOUR
Mr. Campbell's visit to Victoria marked the completion of a six weeks' tour of Canada from the Maritimes to the Pacific Coast, in the course of which he has had subjected to study closely general business conditions affecting motor car sales throughout the Dominion.

"We have found ample evidence during our tour of substantial improvement in employment, wages paid and in continuity of employment in many industries, and one major result of this condition appears to be a marked improvement in the morale of the people throughout the country," said Mr. Campbell.

SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS
"Our own business in Canada is just about double that of last year, and in our export territories in the British Dominions the improvement has been even better than that. Naturally we are comparing our business with that of the worst year of the depression, and for that reason the totals are not what we should like them to be. Nevertheless, the improvement we have registered is really substantial progress. The record for the year to date in British Columbia represents a fair average of the country at large."

Mr. Campbell returned to Vancouver, Sunday night, and left there for Chicago, where he is scheduled to attend a meeting of Ford executives, Thursday, at the Ford Exposition at a Century of Progress.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 24 (AP).—Julius M. Hannaford, eighty-three, former president of the Northern Pacific Railway, who had served that road continuously for sixty-two years, died at his home here tonight. He had been in failing health about a year.

Named president of the road on August 27, 1913, to succeed the late Howard Elliott, Mr. Hannaford served in that capacity until his retirement in 1920 to serve as vice-chairman of the board, a position he still retained at the time of his death.

Mike Hendrickson in Hospital After Reporting Loss by Confidence Trick

SEATTLE, Sept. 24 (AP).—Shortly after he had reported to police that a "bunco" man defrauded him of $60 yesterday afternoon, Mike Hendrickson, sixty-eight-year-old resident of Nanaimo, faintly in the King Street station and suffered a severe head injury when he fell to the floor. He was taken to Harborview County Hospital.

Police said Hendrickson gave the money to two strangers, who had told him they had "sure bet" and could make a profit for him. The men did not return.

Six definite questions were asked of the President in a statement approved by fifty directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. No immediate reply was forthcoming from Mr. Roosevelt at his Hyde Park Summer home.

LIKES HARMONY IN HIS CHURCH

Rector Explains in Court Dismissal of Chorists and Lady Helpers

SEATTLE, Sept. 24 (AP).—A number of women members of his church, whose activities he had allegedly tried to curb, were in court today as Rev. Charles H. Mook, rector of Trinity Church, assumed his court battle to keep his position.

Under cross-examination by attorneys for the vestry, which had called upon him to resign, Rev. Mook related that he had dissolved the women's auxiliary and the Daughters of the King, and summarily dismissed six members of the choir.

"I did it in the interest of harmony—and I mean that both technically and in the ordinary sense," the pastor testified.

The hearing, being held before Superior Judge Howard M. Findley in the pastor's suit against his vestry and the Rt. Rev. S. Arthur Huston, Bishop of Olympia, to restrain them from removing him, also called into question a canon of the church on the powers of the Bishop of Olympia.

Attorneys went into Rev. Mook's troubles with his feminine parishioners in an effort to refute his assertions that the vestry's only reason for asking him to resign was because of his refusal to accept a salary reduction from $4,000 to $2,400 a year. The bishop upheld the vestry in their request, but the rector then obtained a temporary court injunction and has proceeded under it for the past three Sundays.

Long Debate of Price to Be Paid Russia for Share in Road Settled

TOKIO, Sept. 24 (CP-Havas).—Manchurian delegates to a conference expected to complete the transfer of the Chinese Eastern Railway from the U.S.S.R. to Manchukuo were reported today en route to Tokyo on invitation from Japanese Foreign Minister Koki Hirota.

Following a period of sharp friction resulting from the interruption of negotiations for the sale of the road, newspapers and other sources reported an agreement had been reached in principle.

The tentative price reported agreed upon was 170,000,000 yen (about $51,000,000).

FEARED ATTACK FROM OFFICER

Inquiry Told Morro Castle Captain Was Fearful of Serious Harm

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (AP).—Less than twenty-four hours before fire destroyed the liner Morro Castle, with the loss of 132 lives, Captain Robert R. Willmott voiced the fear that the liner's assistant wireless officer, George I. Alagna, would throw acid in his face, it was testified today.

This fear was so real, Chief Officer William F. Warms testified before the Federal inquiry board today, he kept the door of his cabin locked.

Warms, called to testify a second time to the events surrounding the holocaust, declared that the master was in "real fear" of Alagna, and only a few hours before he died Friday night expressed a premonition of disaster.

HAD PREMONITION
"Something is going to happen," Warms quoted the captain as saying. "That evening Willmott was dead, and barely eight hours later his command was a charnel ship."

George W. Rogers, the chief wireless officer, later corroborated, in part, Warms' testimony regarding the "acid." Rogers testified that in Havana, another operator came aboard and suggested methods of "getting even" with the Ward Line, mentioning some "liquids."

SOVIET PREPAREDNESS

Lieut.-Colonel W. R. Nicholson, of Sydney, Australia, has just spent six months in Russia, and one of the observations he made was that the Soviet Power is building up the most perfect machine the world has ever seen. Almost the entire resources of the heavy industry organization, he says, are thrown into the production of war supplies and equipment, while "munition dumps" are springing up like mushrooms all over the country. The Red Army is costing $1,000,000,000 a year. In connection with the growth of military power in Russia the chief passages of the oath which every man of the Soviet Red Army is required to swear are of interest. They follow:

"I swear before the working class of the U.S.S.R. and before the whole world to fulfill my duties with honor. . . I swear to keep strong and unwavering the revolutionary discipline, and to carry out without fault all orders of the Commanders of the Workers' and Peasants' Government. . . I swear to direct all my thoughts and deeds towards the great aim of the liberation of all the workers of the world. . . And I swear in fight for the U.S.S.R., for the cause of Socialism and for the Brotherhood amongst men to spare neither my strength nor even my life."

The foregoing is an admission that the Red Army, by order of its masters, is concerned with more than the defence of Russia. It is also concerned with the internal affairs of all other countries of the world. It is true that there is nothing new in the oath which Soviet soldiers are required to take. The Soviet rulers had not been in power for five weeks before a fund of 2,000,000 gold roubles was assigned "to finance revolutions in all countries." The Five-Year Plan was announced by the Vice-Chairman of the U.S.S.R. State Planning Commission as a "great plan of world revolution." M. Stalin declared that the Five-Year Plan when completed "would overturn the whole world."

There is no suggestion, now that Russia has been included as a member of the League of Nations, that any steps will be taken to restrain the Third Internationale from war by propaganda. There has been no proposal from any quarter that the League should cause Russia to reduce her military preparations. No guarantees whatever were required from that nation when negotiations were under way for her inclusion in the partnership at Geneva. Propaganda still continues, designed to incite sedition and industrial unrest. Apparently the League of Nations, in the case of Russia, cares for none of these things; and yet, as one writer has put it, "It matters little whether the will of one Power is imposed upon another by force of arms, blockade, or the fomentation of disorder and industrial unrest."

THE SLOW APPROACH OF AUTUMN

There are several indications of the decline of Summer. When considered one by one, these signs are but slight, and it is therefore only the cumulative effect of them all that is really impressive in any degree. The eye of the observer of Nature in all ages has marked the falling leaf, and language has marked and recorded this familiar phenomenon by inventing the word Fall as a working-day equivalent for Autumn.

In Victoria, however, at the present time there is but little change in the appearance of many of the trees. They have hardly begun to shed their leaves in earnest, even if, sure enough, a single leaf may occasionally be seen to flutter, surreptitiously as it were, to the ground. Broadly speaking, the trees are still fully clothed and their leaves are still green. Victoria's gardens still bloom, if not quite in all their mid-Summer glory, then at least with a brave and undefeated air as who should say: "We may be approaching maturity, but we can still display much of the fair appearance of our exuberant youth."

It may be indeed that the slightly-lowered temperature of eventide has turned the thoughts of elderly gentlemen to their overcoats. Possibly some people may have recently been seen wearing sweaters and even heavier underclothing, although naturally enough the latter lacks confirmation. One occasionally notices sounds and other unmistakable signs of cold delivery. However, before we allow ourselves to be too greatly influenced either by these portents or by our own sensations, let us consult the calendar. What do we find? We find, with something of a start, not to say a shock, that we have passed the equinox. It is a sobering thought. We know that no self-respecting person ever allows himself to speak disrespectfully of the equator. The same applies to the equinox, and with even greater force to the justly-celebrated equinoctial days. Can it be possible that the fresh breeze which blew upon our gardens the other day, whose effects could be seen in the dishevelled appearance of some plants and blooms, was an equinoctial wind? Moreover, it is not only the equinox. Was not the date of the national Thanksgiving Day recently announced by authority, and do we not already hear of Church Fairs and Harvest Homes? In fact, are we not already within easily measurable distance of Halloween?

This, however, is the language of defeatism. It proceeds from the same despairing spirit that dictated the depressing lines beginning: "The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year." Let us therefore continue to rejoice in Victoria's Autumn days, in which the pleasant coolness of the morning gives place to the genial warmth of high noon and early afternoon. Let us rejoice in our generous allowance of sunshine. Let us be thankful that our rainfall is never really excessive, as it is in some places we might mention. True, our evenings have begun to draw in a bit; but there is always a pleasant glow in the fire which burns redly upon the hearth when the curtains are drawn and evening smothers down to night.

WAR AGAINST "FATE"

A belief has sprung up, through the years, that human heredity obeys definite laws against which there may be rebellion, but change is impossible. Oscar Wilde described heredity as "the last of the fates, and the most terrible. It is the only one of the gods whose real name we know." Scientifically described, the basis of heredity consists of genes, ultra-microscopic particles in the cell nucleus. In other words, the hereditary constitution of an animal can be expressed by formulae somewhat similar to those of the chemist, rendering possible an exact control of the processes of inheritance. New knowledge on the subject has emphasized human bondage in certain respects, but has considerably increased human power in others. This is the belief of Professor J. B. S. Haldane. Eugenic measures can prevent the transmission of congenital defect, but they can have no effect for a generation.

Geneticists have been investigating how the genes work. Doctors recently examined a family in which chronic jaundice was hereditary. The inheritance did not follow Mendel's laws. The character, says Professor Haldane, was a dominant and should have been transmitted only by affected parents to about half their children. Sometimes, however, it skipped a generation. Tests of the bloods of the family showed that the transmitters, as well as the actual sufferers, had transmissible corpuscles, but only about three-quarters of the people with grapple corpuscles developed jaundice. There is a remedy in this case, according to Professor Haldane. The blood can be rendered nearly normal by removing the spleen. He claims this operation can and should be performed on any member of such a family whose corpuscles are abnormal, without waiting for jaundice to develop. Professor Haldane then says, in an interesting article in The Morning Post:

"The future progress of genetics will have a double effect. On the one hand it will make it possible to reduce the number of people with hereditary defects; but on the other, by unveiling the nature of the hereditary process, it will be of the greatest value to those who are actually the victims of pathological heredity. In medicine, the best course is to stamp out an evil at its source, as a proper water supply banishes typhoid; but there is generally a second line of defence—vaccination in the case of typhoid—and often a third. None of them can be neglected without danger."

AN APPRECIATION

The Bulletin of the British Columbia Board of Health contains the following reference to E. S. Macphail, who recently retired as chief of the census and vital statistics division of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics:

"It is with feelings of sincere regret we learn of the retirement of Mr. E. S. Macphail, as chief, division of census and vital statistics of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, after a period of thirty-four years of constant service to the Dominion Government of Canada."

"We of the vital statistics branch of the Provincial Board of Health of British Columbia, who have been actively associated with Mr. Macphail since the Dominion-wide scheme of vital statistics was launched in 1918, have felt that we have come to know a man whose co-operation in the work has been of the highest value to all the provinces, making each one of us feel that we were in fact, a man to whom we are really sorry to say farewell."

"During his stewardship as head of the vital statistics division of the Bureau, there has been a system of registration and analysis built up in the Dominion which would have been impossible of accomplishment with the individual provinces working out their problems alone. Overlapping has been eliminated to the mutual benefit of both the Dominion and Provincial Governments. In British Columbia we have been striving for many years to bring about the creation of divisions and areas of a permanent nature, upon which all statistics could be based, and largely due to Mr. Macphail's perseverance, this was accomplished in 1931, by the establishment of the Standard Statistical Publication Areas."

"We have seen and are sure that as the fruit has ripened it must have seemed good to the eyes of all who beheld it, so, Mr. Macphail, you can go into retirement well knowing that your job has been well done, while we in British Columbia wish you God speed, and trust that you will spend many years to enjoy your well-earned rest.—J.T.M."

Go where he will, the wise man is at home. His hearth the earth, his hall the azure dome.—Emerson.

Would the fate of nature be so serene and beautiful if man's destiny were not equally so?—Thoreau.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Of entrance to a quarrel, but, being in, bear that the opponent may bewilder thee.—Shakespeare.

Those who in quarrels interpose must often win a bloody nose.—Orr.

The League of Nations would be a magnificent and beneficent conception if the nations composing it and the individuals directing it were perfect and had the power to compel its members to stick together and meet their obligations. But the members of the League will not stick together and many of them will not meet their obligations. The governing body of the League seems to have set up a too elaborate and expensive administrative structure in the first place; but of course to regulate all the business of the nations, from the lowest to the highest forms, from politics to economics, from the production and the cost of goods to the hours and the rates of pay for labor, is an ambitious and big job. To do that meant limitation of the independence of the nations as well as limitation of the independence of the individuals composing the nations. It would appear that there are nations as well as individuals who value their liberty and are not ready to exchange it for anything the League has to offer them.

So the League of Nations is confronted with many difficulties, and the chief of these difficulties are financial. The governing body of the League, like the governing bodies of many nations, has been spending too much money and is financially embarrassed. It has issued a financial statement admitting this, but maintains, after the manner of other institutions, that many of its bad debts are recoverable. If that view of the situation is correct, is there any court or force under the League strong enough to enforce payment of the debts, good or bad?

The principal contributors to the cost of international government under the League are the nations of the Dominions of the British Empire. China is reported to be the chief delinquent or defaulter, followed by some of the governments of the minor powers, including those of the South American republics. If there were an international police force, such an organization might be employed for the purpose of collecting debts as well as for keeping quarrelsome nations in order; but that would be tantamount to declaring war against the delinquents, and the chief purpose of the League is to prevent war. The nations have long been in the habit of employing force for the purpose of settling difficulties with their neighbors. That method is, of course, obnoxious to the spirit of these enlightened and civilized times, at least in most countries; but there are indications in Europe that force may again be resorted to for the purpose of attaining national and individual ambitions.

The Hun of the North at one period of the world's history descended like an avalanche upon the Latins of the South and destroyed one established and powerful civilization. At the present time there is enmity between Germany and Italy. There is a dictator in Germany and a dictator in Italy. In Germany the dictator is the state, but it is acting in harmony with the spiritual authority. In Italy the secular power rules the state, but it is acting in harmony with the spiritual authority. In neither nation is the voice of the people very potent. Hitler constantly proclaims his desire for peace, but he is instructing Germans in the art of war and his factories are producing the munitions of war. He regards all peace treaties and compensation agreements as scraps of paper.

There is danger to the peace of the world, and it is both political and religious, a highly explosive social combination. If there were a social body employed for the purpose of keeping the Germans out of Africa and another inevitable conflict with France? If there were such a force, and it were employed for such a purpose, or any international purpose, would the Dominions of the British Empire, which are the bankers of the League of Nations, contribute to its maintenance and operations, and thus risk momentous international entanglements?

That is an aspect of the situation which cannot be overlooked and must be discussed. The only business of any nation which desires peace is to mind its own business. There is no international body or combination capable of regulating and directing the affairs of all nations. The affairs of nations are conducted in accordance with the moral and business concepts of the people of the nations. National relations resemble family relations in this respect: that when an outsider interferes in a family quarrel his reward is that all the members of the family turn upon and beat him up.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of September 25, 1884)

Yesterday afternoon as a gentleman was passing the Capitol building, a coil of thin rope was thrown from the top, just striking the rim of his hat. We are informed that another gentleman was almost struck by a brick thrown from the same building. This is very dangerous, and with a little care on the part of the men working on the building, could be prevented.

Late yesterday afternoon the body of Edward Pamphlett, youngest son of Captain Pamphlett, was found floating in the water at Rock Bay near a boom of logs. He had been playing on the boom a short time before, and was home at first this lifeless body. He appeared to be a young man, and was in good health. The body was recovered by his father's house, which he had left a little while before in perfect health. Deceased, who was aged nine years, was a bright, intelligent boy, and much liked in the city.

A temperance meeting will be held in the basement of the Methodist Church, Pandora Avenue, this evening at 8 o'clock. All the temperance bodies will be represented, and all persons who have the cause at heart should be present. It is believed that a provincial union will grow out of this convention.

The work of reclaiming the overgrown lands in New Westminster district has been in earnest. E. Mohr, engineer, in charge, says it will take about nine months time to complete the work.

POSTMASTER OF BERMUDA

Sir,—In this morning's edition of The Colonist there is an item in "Believe It or Not" which is of great interest to me. The signature of a postmaster, Hamilton, Bermuda, W. B. Perot was my maternal grandfather and first postmaster, I believe, of Bermuda. We have had a property there for over a hundred and fifty years which has been lately sold to the Government for a public library and garden. I believe my sisters who reside in England have in all probability one or more of these stamps from old letters of my mother's. I am sending the cutting from your paper to them, as it will be of great interest to them.

MUNICIPAL FINANCES

Sir,—The midnight hour for municipal finance in our province is reluctantly striking its ominous notes. Three strokes have gone already. The scurrying feet of bond dealers seek refuge from the storm. The lightnings and thunders are awakening the weary, who are drenched in the certainty of bonded riches.

Our financial condition is the direct result of the Henry George system of taxation. The primary objective of that system was to force land into state ownership. If our municipalities had been ready to function as landlords, this may have had advantages; but when the high tax on land forced private owners out of possession, our municipalities found that they were not prepared to use the land. With this breakdown in the scheme, homes and bonds have been exposed to the crushing weight of the system.

The Henry George method of taxation allows homes to function on small pieces of land at a much lower tax than these homes cost the municipality yearly. Where the number of such homes increases, the municipal finances get into a mathematical mess.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A SILENT PASSAGE

It is seldom safe for any player to base his plan of defence upon the assumption that the dummy contains no card entry. Unless he is careful he will find that some helpful looking card can be turned by a clever declarer into a trick winner, and the weakest looking dummy will suddenly have the right to lead.

Last month, in an important tournament, a famous player lost a game because, holding the ace of a suit, he played a small card when declarer led toward the ten of that suit in dummy. It turned out that the declarer held K Q J x, so the ten won the trick and dummy was in the lead to cash five established cards in another suit of which the declarer was void.

A similar catastrophe for the defence occurred on the following deal:

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♠	8 4	♥	9 10 4
♦	9 8 4	♣	10 9 7
♠	A K 10	♥	A 5 3
♦	K 10 5	♣	W E J 7 3
♠	A K 4 5	♥	S J 8 6 5 2
♦	A Q 7 6 3	♣	A Q J 7 6 3
♠	A Q	♥	A Q
♦	A Q	♣	A Q

The bidding: (Figure after bid refers to numbered explanation.)

West	North	East	South
1♠	Pass	Pass	Pass
Redbl. Pass	1♠	Pass	Pass
Dbl. Pass	2♠	Pass	Pass
Dbl. Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

1. North, being too weak to play at the redoubled one-club contract, should have bid one heart.

West was overjoyed at his opportunity to double the three-spade bid. North and South were vulnerable, and it seemed to West that he should be able to win seven tricks for a penalty of 900 points.

His spirits were somewhat dampened when his opening lead of the club king was ruffed by South's spade 3. He still felt certain that he would defeat the contract, however. South led with the spade queen, which West won with the king. West could not lead a spade without giving up a trick, nor a heart without leading into a tenace. Being convinced (on general principles) that East held something in diamonds—perhaps the queen—he did not want to lead a diamond. But he seemed safe enough in leading the club ace. This would establish dummy's queen, but it did not occur to West that it would help South, because there seemed to be no card by which North could get the lead.

Actually, of course, there was not. But West on the next lead created one. South ruffed the second club lead and played the diamond 4. West, joyously played the diamond 6 so that East could get an ace and lead to his heart king. Dummy's diamond 9, therefore, won the trick, and South promptly discarded his heart queen upon the club queen. Now another spade was led, and West could take only three more tricks—two spades and the ace of diamonds. He tried to run South out of trumps by cashing his two spades and leading a club. On dummy's club ten East played the jack and South ruffed with his last spade. But now, after West had cashed the ace of diamonds, he had to lead either a heart to South's ace or a diamond, and the established diamond suit accounted for the rest of the tricks.

TOMORROW'S HAND

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Was Well Known in Business Circles in Canada and United States

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (CP).—The career of a German immigrant, who arrived in America at the age of fourteen and worked upward to attain prominent public positions in both the United States and Canada, is ended here with the death of Emil Julius Meilicke, aged eighty-two.

Active in many business ventures, Mr. Meilicke at one time headed the firm of E. J. Meilicke & Sons, Ltd., lumber merchants and financial agents, in Saskatoon, and formerly directed interests controlling the Star Publishing Company, Saskatoon, and the Leader Publishing Company, Regina.

SETTLED IN WISCONSIN
Born in Woldenberg, the son of a German tradesman, Emil Meilicke came to this continent in 1856 with his family and settled in Wisconsin. Soon afterwards, the family moved to Minnesota, where they established a prosperous farm.

Mr. Meilicke was elected United States Senator of Minnesota in 1898, after having served for some time in the Legislature. During his period of office, he won note as a reformer, especially in matters pertaining to agriculture.

MOVED TO CANADA
In 1902, he moved to Dunder, Saskatchewan, taking with him seventeen families from Minnesota to settle the district. He was associated with the development of Saskatchewan for many years and was later appointed liquor commissioner and subsequently chairman of the Liquor Board. He served on

NEW STUDENTS ARE WELCOMED

Formal Opening Held at Victoria College—Council Not to Allow Hazing

Victoria College formally opened another term, yesterday morning, when some two hundred students gathered in the assembly room, at the school, and were welcomed both by Principal Percy Elliott, and New-ton Cameron, president of the Students' Council.

Principal Elliott expressed regret that Magistrate George Jay, chairman of the Victoria School Board, and Dr. E. B. Paul, principal emeritus of the college, were unable to be present. He then welcomed the first and second-year students, wishing them every success during the year, and giving words of advice to the new students.

The principal said that he was glad to see Miss Ruth Humphrey and Mr. George Black back after trips to England and Europe, and to welcome to the staff Miss Ruth Fields, newly-appointed assistant to J. A. Cunningham in the biology laboratory.

Mr. Cameron greeted the students on behalf of the Students' Council. He pointed out the position of the council regarding gambling and hazing, and explained that anyone breaking the laws governing these matters would be severely dealt with. In closing, Mr. Cameron expressed the belief that with co-operation from the students, the coming year would be most successful.

Alberta Man Dies of Injuries—Two Sons Injured but Condition Not Serious

EDMONTON, Sept. 24 (CP).—One man was fatally burned and two children suffered lesser injuries, today, when a can of gasoline exploded while a fire was being lighted in a stove at Lipsett School, near Widdewater, Alta., in the Peace River country, 180 miles north of Edmonton.

THURSDAY IS LAST DAY FOR ENTRIES FOR FLORAL SHOW

Intending exhibitors at the chrysanthemum show of the Victoria Horticultural Society, on Saturday next, are reminded that their entries should be made by Thursday. The society, this year, is holding the show in the A.O.F. Hall, corner Commercial and Blanshard Streets. In addition to chrysanthemums, Michaelmas daisies and dahlias will be a feature at the exhibition. The decorated tables will also be a popular event. The society, in arranging its schedule, realized the value of Fall flowers from a decorative standpoint, and has included upwards of forty classes, in which baskets, bowls and vases will be judged for artistic effect.

This show will conclude the society's activities along competitive lines for the year, and it is looking forward to a very successful conclusion. For this exhibition, no entry fees are required. All entries are to be made with the secretary, F. E. Boulter, 538 Obed Avenue. Prize lists will be mailed on request, or can be obtained from the floral stores.

Railroads Offer All-Time Lowest Fares to Chicago

SEATTLE, Sept. 24.—A further reduction in coach fares from Pacific Northwest points to Chicago, effective October 1, was announced, today, by representatives of all Western railroads. The new fare agreed on from Victoria and other Northwest Coast points to Chicago brings the cost of rail travel to the Central States to the lowest price ever offered.

Present coach service on these trans-continental routes has added greatly to the comfort and convenience of this mode of travel. Officials of these railroads expect that this new reduction in fares will serve to stimulate further travel between the Pacific Northwest and Eastern points.

ONE WEEK LEFT TO PAY TAXES

Penalty Falls on All Accounts Not Paid by Next Monday in City

As payment of current taxes entered the "home stretch" yesterday at the City Hall, need of extra help from other departments was felt.

Property owners have until next Monday to pay current accounts before the first penalty falls. So far, citizens have responded splendidly to the appeals that have been made, treasury department officials stated.

Although collections are ahead of last year, even greater support is necessary to put the city "over the top" in its effort to end the year in a sound financial condition.

It is the ambition of the council to end the year without a deficit, so that less trouble will be experienced in balancing the 1935 budget. Those who have paid so far have in most instances felt the effect of the 10 per cent reduction in assessments that was made on the 1934 assessment roll.

Yesterday, Mayor David Leeming started signing some 566 cheques for property owners who had participated in the prepayment system, and have refunds coming to them due to excess payment of taxes.

APPROVAL GIVEN TO TRADE SCHEME

Chamber of Commerce Directors Favor Plan to Foster Reciprocal Trade Agreements

Approval of a scheme by which Canada might open up markets of the world through a system of reciprocal trade pacts was given by directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce at luncheon, yesterday, in Spencer's dining-room. The plan was drawn up by R. T. Elliott, K.C., and read to the gathering by J. B.
Clearhue, chairman of a special committee which considers the problems of foreign trade. On recommendation of the special committee, the directors decided to send copies of the scheme to all boards of trade and chambers of commerce in Canada.

It is proposed by the scheme to reduce tariffs by 50 per cent on goods imported from countries which bought Canadian merchandise. In respect of the amount of Canadian exports bought by any nation in a year, that country would have the right to sell its goods in Canada up to an equal amount with that so bought on the basis of paying thereon 50 per cent of the current Canadian customs, according to the plan.

Mr. Clearhue declared the scheme would not interfere with Ottawa Conference agreements, as the plan would amount to an offer for better trade advantage to all nations concerned. Also, the plan assures against the danger of dumping, because the foreign nation would have to buy Canadian exports first, and get the reduced tariff privilege afterwards.

An Irish girl was in the habit of supplying a rectory with game. One day the rector happened to be at the door when she arrived with a brace of fine birds. Being a trifle suspicious, he asked her where they came from.

"Sure, Your Reverence," she explained, with undisguised pride,
"my father's poacher to Lord Clare!"

Canada in the Autumn . . . A picture that all should see.

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

SERVICE

When accompanied by adults children under five years of age travel free, and between that age and twelve, at half fare.

In the opinion of many experienced people, the best time for enjoying railway travel is now. Canada's vast areas of forest and lake are taking on their autumnal splendour, while in the farming districts harvesting operations are proceeding, and the usually quiet countryside is alive with activity and beauty, which compel the admiration and interest of all who behold them. The days have become cooler, the sun is gentler, and the nights are longer and more restful.

Those whose vacations are still to come and those whose affairs cause them to travel, are fortunate. They should not miss the panorama of grandeur which Canada is now providing. Especially should those who dwell in the East endeavour to see our Western Provinces and those in the West enjoy the beauties of the East.

To do so is not an expensive or wearying experience. In pursuance of their policy of rendering as great service as possible, the railways are making special arrangements at exceptionally low fares to enable the public to take full advantage of this fall season, and the C.N.R. is co-operating wholeheartedly. While all the attractive schedules which are usual at this season of the year are available, there are being provided additional inducements to travel by C.N.R.

A new autumn feature which goes into effect on Canadian railways on the twenty-first of September and continues in force until the second of October is the cent-a-mile rate between Eastern and Western Canada. This entitles the traveller to modern and comfortable standard coach accommodation, while for a cent and a quarter per mile and a low price for berth, sleeping accommodation in the well-equipped and pleasant tourist coaches may be had. These berths can be reserved in advance and the total cost of a journey can be obtained on enquiry from any station or ticket office. Travel on these terms is indeed economical and gratifying. And, of course, the excellent dining car services are available to all passengers.

For shorter journeys, the C.N.R. is providing numerous short limit special fare excursions, as well as low fares for trips extending over longer periods and week-ends.

To those whose time is limited and to those who have been hesitant about taking a long vacation, the special provisions for this season should particularly appeal. But whatever be the duration of a trip or whatever be the class of accommodation used, the passenger on a C.N.R. train is a welcome guest and will receive nothing but the best. Every servant of the railway is the passenger's servant. May we suggest that you should use this railway to see a little more of Canada than you have already done?

Newly Elected Anglican Primate and Family

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT

United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP).—The eye we sent down to Vichy to have a look at the smart folks lolling in wealth and leisure taking the "cure" there, has just come back slightly bleary

from keeping late hours, but having done some good reporting. Here is what it saw:

Organdie gowns galore—one especially

lovely one in white with enormous

puff sleeves and accompanied by a huge organdie hat. The only bit of color in the entire outfit consisted in a gorgeous

Japanese fan, wafted to and fro in

the m-firting-with-you manner of

days long gone.

Another touch of those dear, dead

days beyond recall made our

Vichy-eye blink and get ready to come running back with the news

that snuff-boxes were back in style

—snuff and all. Waiting to confirm this bit of sensationalism, however,

our eye bulged with both surprise

and disappointment (in a way) to find that when these gorgeous

boxes—about an inch and a half

wide by three inches long—were opened, instead of being filled with

snuff, they contained pure and heavenly Vichy tablets. Such are the disillusionments in life.

A snappy outfit in woven linen in natural color with a brilliant red

hat, shoes and gloves, purse belt—

and little red box attracted its

share of attention, for its wearer

was one of the social luminaries of

the town.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP

Vichy "cure" takers prefer crisp

organdie, natural linen and gorgeous snuff-boxes in which they carry their Vichy tablets.

"Indeed! What sort of a chap is

he?"

Milk Fund to Be Helped by Another Tag

Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter Milk

fund annual tag day will take place

next Saturday, in aid of the fund, which is used to procure milk for undernourished children. Mrs. W.

Ellis, the regent, is convener of the tag.

Organdie gowns galore—one especially

lovely one in white with enormous

puff sleeves and accompanied by a huge organdie hat. The only bit of color in the entire

outfit consisted in a gorgeous

Japanese fan, wafted to and fro in

the m-firting-with-you manner of

days long gone.

Another touch of those dear, dead

days beyond recall made our

Vichy-eye blink and get ready to

come running back with the news

that snuff-boxes were back in style

—snuff and all. Waiting to confirm

this bit of sensationalism, however,

our eye bulged with both surprise

and disappointment (in a way) to

find that when these gorgeous

boxes—about an inch and a half

wide by three inches long—were

opened, instead of being filled with

snuff, they contained pure and

heavenly Vichy tablets. Such are

the disillusionments in life.

A snappy outfit in woven linen in

natural color with a brilliant red

hat, shoes and gloves, purse belt—

and little red box attracted its

share of attention, for its wearer

was one of the social luminaries of

the town.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP

Vichy "cure" takers prefer crisp

organdie, natural linen and gorgeous snuff-boxes in which they

carry their Vichy tablets.

"I fear you've married again, Mrs.

Tiggins."

"Yes. I've married a sailor."

"Indeed! What sort of a chap is

he?"

"A bit orkard now an' then, but

I ails settles disputes by tellin' 'im

I'm the captain and 'e's only my second mate."

They are tablecloth frocks, would you believe it?

They are made from actual tablecloths, those grand colorful plaid peasant linen ones. The patterns always made me envious, for they looked too bright and gay for mere eating.

You had better get two tablecloths, even if you are not too big,

and then get a good pattern which will permit the fringes to be used in some decorative way. This frock pictured is made from two cloths in a red and white plaid design. It is a plain, tailored style, with the fringe of the cloth outlining the shirtwaist collar and front closing of the blouse and skirt. Red linen bows finish the neck and belt.

The name thing made to touch the floor and backless would be quite the smartest evening frock

you could imagine. If you are hunting for a novelty and want your next country club dance frock to be the envy of all the girls, just get a couple of tablecloths in the most becoming color pattern you can find,

and concoct an evening dress for yourself. You will have the approval of all the fashion dictators,

for it has been done this year by leading designers.

Shower Held In Honor of Bride-to-Be

LADYSMITH, Sept. 24. — The Foresters' Hall was the scene of a large miscellaneous shower, in honor of Miss Leona Mahle, whose marriage to Mr. Thomas Young, of this city, will take place on Thursday.

Sixty-five guests responded to the invitation to attend. Official hostesses for the evening were Miss Grace Kerr and Miss Polly Kuhl, whose energetic direction was responsible for superb decorations, a splendid banquet and some interesting novelties in entertainment.

A session of court, which ended with Miss Myrtle Nicholson and Mrs. E. Jamieson the winners, when the guests adjourned to the supper room. The table decorations featured roses, with an individual rose for each guest. The bride-to-be was accorded the task of cutting a large wedding cake, and the pieces were distributed amongst those present.

Later, the guest of honor was seated beneath a wonderfully-decorated pink and white parasol, formed to represent a rose. The stem of the huge rose held the numerous gifts, which were formally presented by the hostesses. Miss Mahle, in an appropriate speech, thanked the many guests for their kind wishes.

"Ye're no' goin', Tam?" asked the young fisherman anxiously. "Aye," replied Tam, aged ten, "I'm away hame. Ma worm's no' tryin'."

METROPOLITAN

Metropolitan Young People's Society held an interesting meeting last night under the heading, "A Visitor From the West Indies." This service was open to the public, so a number of friends joined the large gathering of young people. Edward Cliff took charge of the worship service, others taking part being Eileen Simmonds, Bert Simpson and Florence Gillis. The main feature was an illustrated lecture on missionary work in the West Indies. Harry Bates introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. John Smart, who gave an interesting talk on the natives and his work among them. Pictures were thrown on the screen by means of the magic lantern, operated by Kenneth Cronk. Group meetings and a series of jolly games brought a happy evening to a close. The young people were asked to remember to bring their scissors and puzzles to the next meeting, as the programme is planned under the title of "Jig-Saw Puzzle Night."

ST. ANDREW'S

St. Andrew's Young People's Society will hold a meeting tonight in the lecture room of the church. It is hoped that there will be a good attendance, as an interesting programme has been arranged. George M. Warren will show a number of moving picture reels of British Columbia industries, loaned through the courtesy of the provincial department of information. Several reels will also be shown of the Klondike Trail. As there was a poor attendance last week, the curriculum of the year, scheduled to have been drawn up then, will be discussed at tonight's meeting. All past members are urged to attend and to bring other friends.

Four Sets of Triplets Celebrate Party

Most bored of all the persons at the quadruplicate triplets' birthday party in Oakland, recently, were the four sets of triplets. They went to sleep. And the thirty-odd grown-ups who attended were the ones who really celebrated the party. It was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Isom, of that city, when the parents of the triplets who were hostesses—one-year-old Jane, Jeanne and Joan Isom. The babies, however, woke for the cameraman, and here they are, left to right, front row: John, James and Jane Cox; second row, Jane, Joan and Jeanne Isom; third row, Laurel, Robin and Roger Lafont; back row, Nannette, Harriette and Charlotte Hoffman. Cunard-White Star Steamer Will Slip Off Ways Tomorrow

Huge New Liner Will Be Christened by Queen Mary, at Clydebank, in Presence of Great Gathering

CLYDEBANK, Sept. 24.—Final preparations have been completed for the launching of Great Britain's mammoth ship, No. 334, at Clydebank, Scotland, tomorrow. She will slide down the ways at 2:50 o'clock in the afternoon.

National interest in the launching of the giant Cunard-White Star liner has been keyed up to a fever pitch, particularly since the secret of its name has been carefully guarded and still remains a mystery. Rumors to the contrary, the world will not know the name of the new ship until it is pronounced by Queen Mary and radioed to all parts of the globe.

Their Majesties the King and Queen are expected to arrive by motor at Clydebank shortly before the ceremony, accompanied by the Lord Provost of Glasgow and other officials.

GUESTS AT DINNER
Prior to the launching ceremony, their Majesties will be greeted by officials from the John Brown Shipyard and Cunard-White Star, Ltd., and will be presented with an illuminated scroll by Sir Percy Bates, chairman of Cunard-White Star, Ltd. ALL READY FOR VISIT

Japanese Sports Promoter Will Accompany Ball Players on Tour

"Professional baseball will make its initial bow before the followers of the game in Japan late this fall," Sotaro Suzuki, sports promoter of Yokohama and adviser to the sporting section of The Yomiuri-Shimbun, prominent daily of Tokyo, stated here, yesterday morning, aboard the Ss. Empress of Russia on her arrival from the Orient.

"The time has arrived when we believe professional ball will pay, and we are ushering it in with the visit of a team from the United States, comprising some of the best players from the National and American Leagues."

Mr. Suzuki is on his way East to witness the world series of ball games and will accompany the big league players to Japan when they leave here, October 20, aboard the Ss. Empress of Japan for Yokohama, as assistant manager of the tour.

"We have been playing baseball in Japan for the last fifty years," Mr. Suzuki said. "For fifteen years now, I have been trying to organize the professional game, and feel confident that it will prove a success. We do not hope to beat the pick of the professional American baseball team, but I am sure we will make a good showing. We have a number of fast ball players, and many fine games are played from time to time between the universities. There are a number of cities with good playing fields ready for the inauguration of the sport, while crowds of sixty and seventy thousand are not rare when teams play at the big Tokyo stadium."

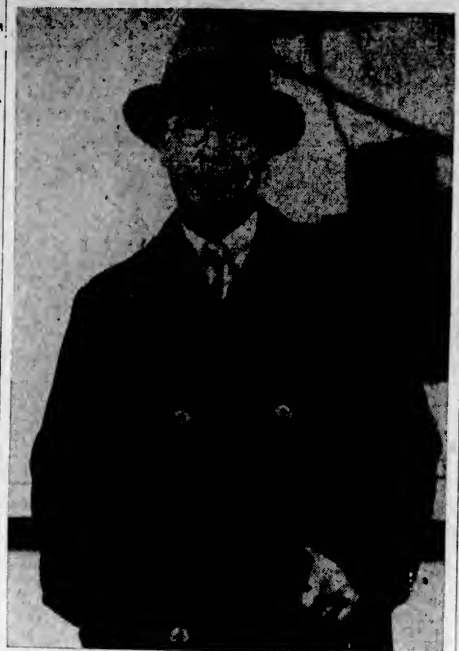

"Next year, we are planning to bring the Dai-Nippon Tokyo Baseball Club to the United States. It is sponsored by Marquis Okuma, who is a patron of the game. A series of games will be played, mainly in Western America, about fifty in all, probably. This undertaking will help to advertise the game extensively in Japan, which is the object of the present tour of the big league players."

The National and American League players, who will travel under the management of William Harridge, president of the American League, and which has been organized by Al Mack, son of Connie Mack, are as follows: Babe Ruth, Jimmy Fox, Lou Gehrig, C. Gehring, E. McNair, "Lefty" Gomez, Earl Whitehill, "Clim" Brown, Newsum, Charlie Berry and Morris Berg.

TUGBOAT UNABLE TO FIND ANY TRACE OF STEAMER IN FLAMES
AMSTERDAM, Sept. 24 (CP).—The Norwegian steamer Grenmar was in flames ninety-five miles off Helsingør, and the crew have taken to the boats, according to wireless messages received today aboard the Swedish steamer Ojaren.

The tug Holland put out to the rescue, but was unable to find the ship. It was believed the Grenmar had sunk.

Filipinos Think Future Prospects Are Very Bright

J. H. Brooks, of Zamboanga, where he is manager of Atkins Kroll & Company, was a passenger aboard the Ss. Empress of Russia, yesterday morning, going through to Vancouver.

Speaking about conditions in the Philippine Islands, Mr. Brooks stated they were not any too good, although the people were most optimistic regarding their future prospects, when they will be able to take over the duties of government and run their own show.

Mr. Brooks considered that the people of the islands, as a whole, were fully capable of carrying on intelligently. They had been governing themselves practically for some time and were fairly well versed in administrative methods.

They would probably have a hard time at first, adjusting themselves to new conditions, he stated, for they will have to compete in world markets for the sale of their sugar, copra and other commodities, which is now under the United States under a liberal quota regulation. They will lose this ready market when they take over the government of the islands, but they have the fullest faith in themselves and are determined to make a go of it.

OPTIMISTS ARE HERE ALL WEEK

Home Gas Entertainers Present Sparkling Programme at City Temple

Home Gas or no Home Gas, at least 1,200 Victoria patrons of the all-British Columbia company slipped past the door-keepers at the City Temple, here, last night, to extend another welcome to the anti-knock, gloom-dispelling Optimists in their opening bill of a full week's engagement in the Capital City. A show every night, with a special children's matinee on Saturday afternoon, form the Optimists' card.

AS GOOD AS EVER

The Optimists are every bit as good as they were last April, when they made their initial appearance here, and cheerful Frank Anders promised to return if the patronage of Home Gas products indicated a desire to hear the entertainers again. The Optimists have brought over an entirely new show, but with all but one of the entertainers. That one got married, last Saturday night, so Mr. Anders announced from the platform.

The brand of entertainment presented by the Optimists is in no way "high hat." They do not pretend to "go classic" and they're on the boards to give the people a couple of hours of fun and frivolity with a musical accompaniment. As Mr. Anders says, "It costs nothing to laugh." The Optimists have been on the entertainment loop for several years and is the only surviving group of entertainers to appear before the "mike" more than any other in British Columbia.

NEW NUMBERS

Starting their programme with the familiar "Home, Sweet Home," followed by the theme song, "Happy Days," the Optimists journeyed through ten mirth-provoking numbers, interspersed with ballads and comic songs. The Optimists introduced two new performers to their Victoria audience, the Heights, Isabelle and Kenny, who provided three tap dancing novelties and the new-est skipping-rope dance, the first time, "Baron" Anders announced, this side of New York City.

Another new novelty was the introduction of the Punch and Judy show, which, it is believed, Chas. Kenny had something to do with. However, it provided twenty minutes of real old-time fun. Ernie Colton brought over a new song "Men of the Air," and was also heard in negro spirituals. Isabelle McEwan, the happy miss of the air, teamed with Mr. Colton in the song "Love in Bloom."

IMPORTED DANCERS

Mr. Anders, with the kind permission of Calvin Winter, introduced his flock of nymphs, an entirely new imported group of dynamic dancers, in a weeping willow series of improvised dances—"If Winter Comes Is Anders Far Behind." It was a burlesque on "The Dance of the Spider."

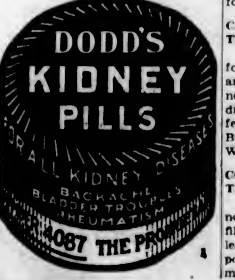

Chris Kenny, the ventriloquist, who has appeared before Royalty and his friend "Mac," provided a period of mirth that was as funny as it was clever. Mr. Kenny is one of the old school of entertainers and is a general favorite with the audiences wherever the company appears.

A NEW SKETCH

The bright and sparkling programme concludes with the comedy sketch "Schoolboys," in which the institutional Frank Anders appears as the schoolmaster and the troupe his pupils. They carry a tankful of original humor with a real Home Gas punch.

The Optimists appear here under the auspices of Home Gas distributors and dealers, presided over by Thomas McPherson, who is the Victoria manager for Home Gas. Mr. McPherson had the honor of introducing the Optimists.

Tonight's troupe will appear at the City Temple with a full show and admissions are obtained from Home Gas dealers anywhere in Victoria and are given to patrons of the company.

IRELAND PROVIDES FILM BACKGROUND

"The Key" Is Unique Drama of Rebellious Times in Lovable, Turbulent Erin

A strange triangular love drama set in the background of the seething cauldron of the Irish rebellion comes to the Dominion Theatre today when the Warner Bros. picture, "The Key," opens for a three-day run, with William Powell in the stellar role.

Powell and Colin Clive, brother officers stationed in Dublin to suppress the rebellion, form two of the sides of the triangle, while Edna Best, the wife of Clive and the former sweetheart of Powell, forms the third.

Clive, a serious minded officer in the secret service, has never completely won the love of his wife, who has a strange infatuation for the gay and dashing captain in the person of Powell. The outcome of this love tangle is one of the big surprises in the picture which is revealed in a thrilling climax.

The picture, which is based on the play by R. Gore-Browne and J. L. Hardy, follows the exploits of the Irish patriots in their uprising of the last decade and the efforts of the British to put down the rebellion.

FAMOUS ORCHESTRA COMING TO EMPIRE

Ralph Britt and his Victor Orchestra are featured with "The High Hatters of Rhythm," which will open their Victoria engagement at the Empire Theatre on Friday, and also play Saturday and Monday, with a special show at midnight Sunday.

This splendid orchestra, which has played in New York and Chicago, will form a musical background for "The High Hatters." Britt and his Orchestra established something of a reputation when they appeared for thirty weeks in the beautiful Toper Night Club of the famous Tulsa Hotel.

EMPIRE Noel Madison, playing the role of a murderer with Ruth Chatterton in "Journal of a Crime," the First National picture now showing at the Empire Theatre, has had recent experience with both the legal and the criminal mind. Just before he was engaged for this picture, Noel played the celebrated Paul Muni role in "Counselor at Law" in a Hollywood stage production of the drama. Here he represented the forces of law and order.

CAPITOL Duke Ellington and his theatre band provide the musical background for the new Mae West picture, Paramount's "Belle of the Nineties," now at the Capitol Theatre. It is a drama of the Naughty Nineties, and features Roger Pryor, John Mack Brown and John Miljan as Miss West's new male interest.

COLUMBIA Paramount's "Disfranchisement," starring Helen Twelvetrees, is now at the Columbia Theatre. The film, an original by Alice D. G. Miller, includes a distinguished supporting cast. Bruce Cabot has the male lead, Adrienne Ames is cast as a reckless society girl, and William Harrison plays the role of a police captain.

Bury Dogs With Full Rites In Unique Paris Cemetery; Some Epitaphs Are Absurd

By PIERRE VAN PAARSEN
PARIS.—The dog cemetery! Sarcophagi of precious porphyry for dogs. Dogs buried in silk-lined mahogany coffins with golden handles. Dog funerals with cream-lacquered motor hearses. Dogs' graves surrounded by tombstones of genuine Sevres porcelain. Dog statues in white, green and red marble, executed by well-known sculptors. Gorgeous mausoleums for dead dogs that cost a fortune alone in the dainty wrought metal fences that surround them. Private gardeners pliously arranging roses and other costly flowers on the graves. Weeping willows and stately cypress trees along tranquil paths lined with benches of marble fitted with gold plates in memory of this or that pup. All this on an idyllic, breeze-fanned island in the Seine, from where you can see the heat waves of a summer afternoon shimmering on the endless rows of concrete, airless slum tenements of Asnières and Clichy, suburbs of Paris where infant mortality hovers between 65 and 75 per cent ever since vital statistics came to be compiled.

TUBERCULOSIS IN PARIS There are twenty-five cemeteries in Paris, some famous ones such as Pere Lachaise, Montparnasse and Montmartre. The tombstones in these immense graveyards present a complete course in the history and the spiritual life of France of the last five or six centuries. But this city of dead dogs on the island has a note all its own. The place is called the "Ile des Ravageurs." Until half a century ago it was inhabited by ravagers, that is, people who fished up corpses that floated down the Seine and stripped them of their clothes and valuables, which they sold on Sunday morning at the Marche des Puces (the Flea Market). The Flea Market still exists, but the ravagers have vanished, along with the apaches and the garrotters.

I always knew this dog cemetery existed. But I had never gone there. I don't like cemeteries. Morbid Dostoevsky went to cemeteries to overhear the conversations of the dead and subsequently write it down in lugubrious dialogue. My ears are not so sensitively attuned. I hear nothing in such places but the silence of the tombs. And then, in order to get to this canine necropolis you must traverse either Asnières or Clichy. If ever you do go to that way you'll wonder with me why Paris is called "gay." Asnières and Clichy have the highest percentage of any town in the world for tuberculosis. That frightful disease meets you in the streets at every step, stops you to ask for a penny or stares at you with deep burning eyes from behind a lone flower-pot in some open window.

MONEY FOR FUNERALS The benches in the dog cemetery are put up "for meditation." It says so on the gold plates, which you may inspect under the watchful eye of private policemen. What is one to meditate on after coming through Clichy on a sweltering hot day? I know what I was thinking: Some day all this godless business, this cramming together of human beings in these steaming ovens will have to stop. There is always money, and a moment's notice, for armaments and battleships and for luxurious dog cemeteries, but it takes centuries to clean up one slum district. Why?

To be treated like a dog is a popular saying. I saw some dog funerals this afternoon that make this saying ridiculous. Six uniformed attendants carried a tiny coffin with a deference as if it contained the Imperial crown of Muscovy. Slowly on an automatic lowering machine, it disappeared into the earth. Heaps of flowers were thrown in the open grave. The mourners wept. They were two old ladies. But it's not only elderly spinsters who want to assure their darlings a human fate after death, so to speak. I saw the tombs where dogs were buried that had belonged to Henri Bataille, to Courteline, to Abel Padure, to Marshal Poch. I saw the grave of Henri Rochefort's cat. The grave of Rejane's canary bird and the grave of a race horse named Kravir.

Heinrich Heine tells how Danish missionaries who tried to convert the Greenlanders were asked whether there were any seals in the Christian heaven. When the Greenlanders were given a negative reply, they refused to embrace Christianity, saying that life without seals wasn't worth while. In this dog cemetery I found one epitaph which holds out hope, however. It reads: "Moi, je crois que dans le Peut-Etre, Dans l'ailleurs que nous espérons, Les bons chiens attendent leur maître, Et que nous retrouverons." (I believe that in the great Maybe, in that hereafter for which we hope, good dogs wait for their masters, and that we will see each other again.)

If that's true, I hope for the dogs sake that they won't have to be kept on the leash, as in French parks, or wear a muzzle on the hottest days of the year.

SOME EPIITAPHS

Some epitaphs say more about the master than about the dog. This one, for instance: "You were a better friend than humans." Or this bitter cry: "Nobody understood me but you." Or this yet: "You were the companion of my solitude and misery!" Still, that misery could have been of a material kind. For a grave costs 10,000 francs, or $665, and the tombstone on that particular grave was easily worth it.

double that amount. The upkeep is 500 francs a year, $35.

I caught the 7 o'clock pont back to Clichy just after the factories had closed. Masses of men and women were streaming along the quays. There were tired and pale faces at every window in the tenement houses. The night announced itself sultry. Under the Seine bridges fires were burning. The homeless—clochards—were getting ready for the evening meal. Others were asleep already stretched out on the cobblestones.

FARMERS DEFEAT MANY PROBLEMS

Equipment Contrived and Built by Growers Boosts Yields and Cuts Down Costs

BASKATOON.—Ingenuity and adaptation, acquired through struggles against big problems, are bringing greater returns than anticipated by Saskatchewan farmers. Professor Manley Champlin and Professor E. A. Hardy, University of Saskatchewan, made the discovery.

Making a tour along the Goose Lake line and adjacent territory, the two professors discovered machinery was being contrived to combat particular conditions, and methods of sowing and reaping were being made to fit in with peculiar soil.

MAKE EXPERIMENT

One of the best examples they found was on the farm of Flyk brothers, at Glidden, Sask. Seven hundred acres of land were seeded chiefly by the use of a combined disk and seeder. The soil is heavy gumbo, on which disk ploughs were usually required.

With an engine and a twenty-one-foot seed-furrow, the seed was put in at a single operation. The soil was left lumpy, with the stubble on top. The soil so treated did not drift, and the crop is expected to run about eighteen bushels to the acre.

The cutting was done by a windrower, to which a conveyor had been attached, carrying the grain into a dump-barge, eight by ten feet. The header and conveyor were separated from the tractor by means of a power take-off. And when they work at night, they string lights, with power obtained from a portable generator.

RECALLS EARLY SCHOOL EFFORTS

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24 (CP).—When two boys, Arthur W. Watson, seven, and his brother, Gordon, five, came down from Coppermine River, on the rim of the Arctic, a few weeks ago, to attend St. John's College here, it brought memories to Mrs. Mary Jane Sinclair of her days at a Hudson's Bay Company trading post.

Miss Lillian Gibbons, writing in the Winnipeg Tribune, recounts memories cherished by Mrs. Sinclair in 1877, when she was the mother who stopped at the outpost while her two sons made a trip to Winnipeg with their father, Outburt Sinclair, to attend the same Anglican boys' school.

Born at St. Andrews, Man., a few miles north of Winnipeg, Mrs. Sinclair received her education at a little schoolhouse on the west bank of the Red River. She recalled that at that time it was the custom to send children to England or the United States for education. Her children were among the first to be sent from trading posts to Winnipeg schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair superintended various posts in the North, including Berens, on the Labrador coast, and Coocoochee, on the St. Morice River, in Quebec. Mr. Sinclair died in Montreal in 1900, and Thomas A. Sinclair, her eldest son, brought the family to Winnipeg to reside.

DETROIT CAPTURES AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT

Judge Austin Wins Colonist Handicap From Select Field

Scores Fine Victory Over Pop in Feature of Final Day's Racing at Willows — One-Two Bet Pays $399.60

Victoria's fourteen-day racing season ended in traditional "Go home away day" style, yesterday afternoon, at the Willows track, with two outsiders running first and second in the final gallop of the season and rewarding holders of the winning one-two tickets with the handsome sum of $399.60. Of the thousands of punters who were on hand for the last day's running, only four were able to select Warren S. and Dare Devil on the one-two ticket. The price was by far the largest returned during the fourteen consecutive days of galloping at the local enclosure.

WINS FEATURE

Judge Austin, with Jockey Palaz up, won The Colonist Handicap from a fine field of thoroughbreds when he came to the wire half a length in front of Pop, the favorite. Medallion, who was made the second choice by the bettors, finished third, one and a half lengths behind Pop. The winner paid $4.05 straight; $3.75 place and $2.50 show.

Favorites found the going hard, and only came home in front in three of the seven races. Golden Meek was the first form-played mount to get the judge's eye, when she won the first gallop by a length from Iston Whittier. In the next race, Genevieve M. with Taplin up, led the parade to the finishing wire while the last and third favorite to click in front was Bill Bane, in the sixth gallop over the mile and seventy yards distance.

Warren S. captured the major share of the purse in the marathon when he won by three lengths from Dare Devil. Red Lady, another outsider, copped the show position. The winner rewarded his backers with $53.80, the longest win price of the day.

ONE-TWO PAYS WELL

While Bill Bane, the public choice mount, won the fifth race, the one-two bet in this event paid $153.90, when Voltmeter, locally-owned thoroughbred, finished in the place slot. On previous trips to the starting post Voltmeter had carried considerable money, but yesterday he was overlooked by the bettors and returned $23.10 to place and $11.45 to show.

The daily double price was low, yesterday, when Genevieve M. and Little Satin, two heavily-backed mounts, won the second and third races, respectively. Bettors who picked the two horses received $10.15 for their selection.

RECORD CROWD

Favored with fine weather, a record crowd of bettors was on hand yesterday, to witness the running of the final day's racing on British Columbia tracks. Wagering on each event was high, with the aggregate showing an increase over that of last year.

Officials of the meet stated, yesterday, that all "outs" can be cashed at the office of D. D. McTavish, 618 Broughton Street.

1000 EVENS BALL SERIES

Imperial Blanks Arnold & Quigley 2-0—Pelosky's Homer Wins Game

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (CP).—Ray Steele, Glendale, Cal., will make an attempt to gain the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, here Thursday night, when he will go eight rounds with Jim Londos, world's champion.

The match, a headline event, will be supported by a five-round return match between Joe Malcewicz and Leo Numa.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 24 (CP).—Five-hit pitching by Jowett, Ioco Imperial mound ace, and sensational fielding and timely hitting by Pete Pelosky, right-fielder, gave the gamblers a 2-0 victory over Arnold & Quigley in the second game of the British Columbia senior baseball play-offs, tonight.

Tonight's victory gave Ioco an even break in the two games of the three-out-of-five series. The Imperials won the first, 9-4, Saturday night.

For seven scoreless innings, Jowett, slim southpaw hurler, and Elmer Bray, husky mound star of the clubbers, engaged in a brilliant mound battle. Pelosky gave the Imperials, champions of the Terminal League, the verdict in the eighth when he landed on one of Bray's fast ones for a home run with a mate on base.

Besides his circuit clout, Pelosky starred in right field by throwing out three men at first base on what should have been clean singles.

Virginia Vane Says:

THE YOUNG MARRIED INFATUATION

Dear Virginia Vane: I am-in love with the husband of a friend of mine. I do not believe that my own husband has ever been untrue to me, or that he suspects that I am in love with the other man.

My affinity and I cannot bear the situation as it stands. If we both freed ourselves and went away together, we could never be truly happy because we each love our children dearly. Yet without each other there is nothing to live for. Has anyone ever known a more difficult problem?—Desperate Wife.

It is always hard to realize that other people have suffered just as we have—believed confidently that they would die for love and somehow or other got over the whole thing and gone on living in the most placid, comfortable fashion imaginable.

You don't want to be told, Desperate, that many young wives have gone through the phase which now causes you so much suffering. You want to feel that your experience is unique. But honestly it isn't.

There comes a time in the lives of most men and women, after a few years of marriage, when, without realizing it, they begin to look for something different. They don't consciously feel any dissatisfaction with their chosen mates. But they're in the mood for trouble, and usually, if they don't protect themselves against it, they find it all too easily.

The nice young married woman who doesn't go out with men other than her husband finds her bunch of trouble among her crowd of young marrieds. That's the easiest way. She experiences a sudden flutter of the heart over the fact that a hitherto conventional young man is taking an exceptional interest in her.

For some time her husband has not shown the appreciation every woman so dearly loves. This young wife is, therefore, at once struck with her new admirer's powers of perception. Believe it or not, from that one little flutter begins the kind of affairs that threatens to wreck homes.

For any woman is capable of building illusions around the man who has given her some new love which she feels subconsciously she needs. And the young wife shortly finds herself admiring and loving extravagantly a very nice, everyday sort of man who is being just a husband to some other woman.

I am not trying to belittle your feelings, Desperate, in the least, or to be cynical about your romance. I am trying to show you how you may have been led into thinking you'd found the one great love of your life, when in reality you've discovered nothing more than that you are still a young and attractive woman who is able to arouse a spark in some man's breast. Won't you try to look at your feelings—and his—in the light of common sense? Won't you try to get over this infatuation by being rational, instead of by dramatizing the situation and making it worse?

It is possible for you to be happy with your husband again. Everything is not lost, if you will only try systematically to get over the idea that this infatuation of yours represents the biggest thing in your life.

It doesn't. You have sense enough to know that it could never have a normal, happy ending. Neither you nor the man could be happy without your children. Therefore the affair, at best, can only drag its weary length through the best years of both your lives and effectually ruin your peace of mind.

Try to believe that other young married people have made this same mistake—that they have drifted into entanglements with each other's husbands or wives, and have eventually arrived at the conclusion that their own marriages were hopelessly wrong. But, thank goodness, a great many of them have survived the experience, have sought for the real values of life and discarded the superficial. And it has ended in their casting aside false romance and making the best of a steady, substantial happiness which has brought them peace and given them and their children a measure of real contentment.

D.C.: I think that you would be wise to clear up the situation between yourself and your wife here and now. You know that you love her and that you want her back. She has had time to decide whether or not she will return to you.

Write her and tell her that if she isn't coming back, you must try to make some happiness for yourself—that you cannot go on hoping and waiting. Suggest to her that there might be some hope of another marriage for you if you were free, but that under the circumstances you can form no attachment which would be fair to the other woman in the case.

And, in the meantime, don't be serious with either of the two girls you're interested in. Give them a chance to begin life all over again, or not they're willing to go with you while you're still married. They have done nothing to harm you, and you might do them irreparable harm if you pretend to be divorced and so let either of them think that she was entering into a relationship with a man who was free to marry her.

If you are indeed going to begin life all over again, you will find that your honesty and decency will have given you a real basis for a permanent relationship with either of the girls in question.

ONE-MAN JOB

An old Highland gillie was engaged by an English peer to accompany him on a salmon-fishing expedition.

Soon the angler landed a salmon, then another, and yet another, and after each of these exploits he took out his flask and refreshed himself. The third time this happened the gillie turned the boat, rowed for the bank, put the chain through the stake-ring, and locked the padlock. As the old man made his way up the grassy slope, the Englishman called to him: "Come back, Rab. I've not finished yet."

Rab turned and gazed scornfully at the peer.

"Nae, nae, my lord, this time you'll hae to manage yerself. Them as drinks wi' theirsels can just fish wi' theirsels!"

COADJUTOR IS RECOMMENDED

Bishop Schofield Makes Announcement in Diocesan Leaflet

Appointment of a bishop-coadjutor who would share with Rt. Rev. C. D. Schofield the work of the Diocese of Columbia, will be recommended by the diocesan executive committee to the synod at the meeting to be held early next year.

The matter was outlined by Bishop Schofield in detail in Sunday's diocesan leaflet. Although in much better health than he has been for the past year and a half and able to carry out important duties of his office, the bishop's medical advisers have told him that he cannot expect to resume the full work of the missionary jurisdiction which entails the strain of annual journeys to distant parts of the island.

In ordinary circumstances, a chief difficulty in any such plan would be a financial one; but I have been able to reassure the committee in this regard. As it happens, the endowed archdeaconry is vacant, and my proposal will then have to provide only a very slight addition to the sum formerly paid to the archdeacon on account of travelling expenses.

BUNGALOW IN UPLANDS
 "The situation is helped still further, because a generous friend and member of the church, who wishes at present to remain anonymous, has presented the diocese with a bungalow in the Uplands; and the proposal includes our moving into this smaller house and setting Bishop's Close free for the bishop-coadjutor and his family."

The executive committee has appointed a sub-committee of clergy and laymen to work with me in finding two or three suitable priests whose names (among others) may be submitted to the synod for election; and all are deeply concerned here."

The bishop expressed gratitude to the executive for their wish that he should carry on as bishop; the suggested plan not only seemed feasible, but should prove an added strength to the diocese.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

TESTING THE ABILITY OF THE LIVER TO DO ITS WORK

Many individuals wonder just why they do not feel as full of vim as others seem to be. They are not sick, eat fairly well, and sleep very well. In fact, they find it easy to have a little sleep during the day. Sometimes they have considerable "gas in the stomach," and may be a little drowsy.

The cause of these symptoms, and these symptoms do not seem serious, is that the liver is not doing its work properly.

As you know, the liver is the most important organ in the body from the standpoint of the number and importance of the various jobs it has to do—clearing the blood of poisons, supplying the blood with coloring matter, storing sugar for future needs, manufacturing bile to break up fats and stimulate bowel action.

On account of its size, six pounds, the blood in the body in it all the time.

Now, if the liver isn't working properly, all these jobs—clearing the blood, storing sugar, making bile—are not being done properly and the symptoms mentioned above may arise.

Fortunately there is what is called the dye-test, which shows whether or not the liver is working properly. The dye is put into a vein in amounts in proportion to the weight or size of the individual, and the time taken for the liver to clear this dye out of the blood is noted.

Dr. Zappacosta, before the Academy of Medicine and Surgery, Naples, recently described a method for the determination of "glyco-cyanine" in the blood. He injected this substance into the veins, and fifteen minutes after the injection he no longer found it in the blood of forty-five normal individuals.

On the other hand, in forty-six patients with various disturbances of the liver he observed that the substance is still found in the blood after the same period of time and even in a very noticeable quantity in most cases, and in amounts in proportion to the decreased ability of the liver to do its work.

Now the liver is an important organ; doing its work properly it makes life worth living, and not doing its work properly, even the smallest obstacle or job looms large. It would seem like good sense, then, to have your physician use the above or other methods to test your liver's ability to do its work. If you have any of the symptoms above mentioned.

DEATH ON THE DIAMOND

BY CORTLAND FITZSIMMONS

CHAPTER XX
 Goofy Gaston was wild at the start and walked two New York batters. Shorty Dugan, who was now playing shortstop in place of Doyle, lined a hot single through Crawford on first and drove a run in. Crawford was injured in the play. The ball nearly tore his thumb off and he gave way to Steve Higgins, a rookie infielder from the Butchers farm in Desatur.

Rosy Moore was just pitching along, taking his time. Moore had the theory that his outfield, and infield, too, for that matter, should do ninety per cent of his work for him. Unerring control and a most splitter had the batters all popping up and hitting into the dirt. There were no strikes in Moore's bag of tricks. He had control and an accurate knowledge of each batter's weaknesses.

Gaston seemed to settle down after the third. The Blues nicked him for another run in the second, but that was all. He set six men down on strikes in a row. The Butchers collected a run from Moore in the sixth.

Gaston was living up to his reputation. He razed each New Yorker as he stepped up to the plate and had the fans back of the screen in stitches at his antics. At the same time he was pouring that deadly submarine ball of his up to the plate.

In the eighth Gaston himself got a hit. The crowd was wild. It was the eccentric one's first hit of the season. The next man up was Joe Morris, the Butchers' new second baseman bought to replace poor Dirkin.

Rosy Moore was pitching more slowly than ever. Morris was an unknown quantity to him and he looked him over carefully. The ball floated up to the plate and Morris swung. He topped it and the ball went down to Dugan at short. Dugan came in fast, hesitated and made a scoop off the dirt. He came up with nothing. The ball went clean through his legs out to Buck Gaston in centre.

Gaston crossed the plate with the lying run and the game took on an entirely new complexion. Moore held the rest of the inning scoreless by dint of two infield outs and a pop fly to Dick Horan. It was swell pitching in the face of a terrible break.

The two teams battled in a two-out deadlock until the thirteenth. Pop Clark noticed that the rookie, Higgins, on first, was hugging the bag too much. Morris on second was a useful player, but lacked Dirkin's great skill at going over to his left as a first baseman. The ball was hit and run play was on and it worked like a charm. Huette, the assistant manager, coaching at third, was caught napping. Both Higgins and Morris started late and Schatz' hit rolled between them for a perfect single. Brown scampered around to third. The stands were glum. One run at this stage of the game looked as large as a dinosaur egg.

Horan laced the first ball pitched to him far out into right field. Smith ran back and caught it up near the flagpole. Brown waited for the catch and crossed the plate with the third run. Three to two and Rosy Moore pitching like a well-oiled piston-rod.

The press boys were unanimous in criticizing Huette on the play. Rawlins would never have let the Blues get away with it. Terry was gleeful as he tapped out his running account of the game. That was all the Blues managed to get. Both Dugan and Moore went down swinging.

The Butchers came up to the plate with murder in their hearts. Huette, smarting under the play just pulled on him, ordered all the Butchers to hit the first pitch. Smith rammed a double down the third base line. Higgins was next up and Moore got him thrown out at first. Smith, advancing on the play, Horitz, the catcher, waited Moore out carefully. The count was two and two when he lashed out at a slow curve. The ball rose high in the air back of third base. Reynolds ran for it and Jole Brown held the third base bag, hoping for a play on Smith. Huette watched Reynolds running. It seemed to be the only chance to tie the score and the moment the ball fell in the left fielder's glove he screamed at Smith to dash for the plate. Smith ran and when he got about ten feet away from the plate he saw the ball sail over his shoulder into the outstretched glove of Horan. In vain he pulled up and tried to scramble to third. A short peg Brown and he was trapped. Swift little Jole pounced on him and the Blues had won another close one.

"Terry my boy, here is your dough," Craven handed over Mullins' money with a laugh. "You sure got all the breaks, young fellow."

"Or may be I know my baseball," Terry said with a sly look in the direction of Mullins. "Maybe some day you fellows will realize that these Blues can play ball."

Terry, Horan, Craven and Reynolds waited for a cab. "Mullins sure is sore over losing that five," Reynolds grinned his satisfaction.

"He won't believe that men like Pop and Rawlins are the brains behind their teams," Terry answered. "Which team do you think the best?" Reynolds asked.

"You mean between the Blues and Butchers?" Terry asked. And after Reynolds' nod of agreement, he went on. "The Butchers are the best all-round players. I don't think there is any argument on

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"JEW'S-HARP"
 "Why," inquired a reader, "do we call that curious musical utensil a 'jew's-harp'?"

A "curious musical utensil" indeed is the so-called "Jew's-Harp," which, it may be stated in passing, is not a bit more Jewish than the English horn is English or the French horn is French.

The Jew's-Harp is said to be of Chinese origin. It is one of the most primitive of musical instruments. As everybody knows, it is played while it is held in position by the teeth.

It is this latter fact which is responsible for its name—indirectly. For "Jew's-Harp" should really be "jaw's-harp," of which it is a corruption.
